Fostering Questions & Answers

What is fostering?

Fostering is a way of offering a home to children who, for a variety of reasons, are unable to live with their birth families. Unlike adoption, foster children do not become the full legal responsibility of their foster carers. Foster care placements can last from a few weeks, to a few years, but in a minority of cases children may need fostering until they grow up.

Who can foster?

Foster carers come from all walks of life – carers can be married or single, living with a partner, gay or straight, homeowners or renting. There is no upper age bracket. You do not need to have had children of your own but you will need some experience of working or engaging with children or young people.

What do I need to foster?

Unless you are fostering babies up to their second birthday, you will need a spare bedroom to be able to care for a child in your own home. No specific qualifications are needed but you will need the right personal qualities and skills to be able to care for a child who has had a difficult start in life. You will also need the time to attend training and meetings and to be available before and after school and in the holidays. You will need to enjoy spending time with children.

What are the benefits of fostering?

Fostering isn't always easy but foster carers tell us that it is very rewarding. Being able to change a child's life for the better gives carers a tremendous amount of satisfaction. All carers receive excellent full training in their local area and a package of fees and generous allowances. Foster carers are never expected to 'go it alone' and are always supported by a team of professionals. We hold regular training and networking events near to you so you can meet other local foster carers.

JOBS BOMBSHELL

Closure of Tesco distribution centre puts hundreds at risk of redundancy

CHRIS MOSS

chris.moss@hertsexnews.co.uk

UP to 800 jobs are set to be axed in Harlow after supermarket giant Tesco this week confirmed plans to close its regional distribution centre at Pinnales.

The firm will shut down its sprawling fresh food depot in Flex Meadow in August as part of a "strategic review" of its distribution network.

A spokesman for the chain - which posted a half-year pre-tax profit of £1.9bn last month - claimed staff affected by the closure would be offered the opportunity to relocate to one of two new depots in Reading and Dagenham.

"We are working with affected colleagues to support them at this difficult time," he added. "We'll do everything we can to find alternative roles within Tesco for as many people as possible."

But angry workers have pointed out that the nearest of the two new distribution centres is a 45-minute drive away in Dagenham, while anyone switching to the Reading depot would face a 150-mile round trip to get to and from work every day.

"There are people who have worked at this depot for over 20 years - they're not going to uproot their families and move to Reading or Dagenham," one staff member told the Star.

"Tesco know that most people will probably opt for redundancy, leaving the door open for them to recruit lower-paid agency workers."

Another employee said: "Staff working here have known this has been on the cards for a long time. It was more a question of 'when', not 'if'."

"But it doesn't make it any easier for the 800 or so people whose livelihoods rely on their jobs here. Relocation simply won't be an option for many."

The Star understands that Tesco management met with union representatives on Monday to inform them of the decision.

A consultation with all affected staff

More woe as PAH cuts frontline staff

MORE than 30 members of staff at Princess Alexandra Hospital are facing redundancy as the cash-strapped NHS trust makes further efficiency savings.

Sources claim those at risk include nursing staff, occupational therapists and dieticians.

It remains unclear when the job cuts will be implemented, although the Star understands that consultation with union representatives began this week.

Melanie Walker, chief executive of the PAH NHS Trust, said:

"Unfortunately the savings for this year mean it has been necessary to make some redundancies."

"However, we are not simply cutting back. We have remained committed to protecting frontline services and will be increasing the number of nurses across the Trust, especially in areas such as the accident and emergency department."

NEWS IN BRIEF

MP backs car park petition

HARLOW MP Robert Halfon is backing a petition against Labour-controlled Harlow Council's recent decision to scrap free parking in the town's smaller shopping districts.

The petition, which was started by Conservative councillor Russell Perrin, has already received more than 500 signatures and will be presented to the council once it has reached the 1,000 mark.

New NHS group for Harlow

A NEW health body will be responsible for the procurement of healthcare services within the Harlow district from April this year.

West Essex Commissioning Group received authorisation from the NHS Commissioning Board last week and will have a budget of around £318m to spend on NHS services.

The group will be GP-lead and run by clinicians and NHS managers.

Neighbourhood Watch boost

HARLOW Neighbourhood Watch has successfully applied for funding to promote the relaunch of the group.

The organisation will receive £1,000 from the High Sheriff's Fund - a scheme supporting voluntary and charity work - to purchase anti-burglar packs.

The money will be presented to Harlow Neighbourhood Watch secretary Paul Wadley at a ceremony on Wednesday, March 13.

Stride visits local art studios

GATEHOUSE Arts welcomed Labour parliamentary hopeful Suzy Stride when she visited their town centre studios.

Ms Stride said: "Gatehouse Arts is a great project and resource for the town and I encourage others to visit their galleries, buy their art, take part in their workshops and support local artists."

"It's always great to see a project tapping into such fantastic talent."

Re-appeal over stolen watch

POLICE are continuing to investigate a burglary in Moorfield, Harlow, in which a watch and jewellery were stolen.

The silver Garrard watch was presented to the victim in recognition of his 40 years of service at Johnson Matthey and is of huge sentimental value.

It has a gold case, light brown face and a dark leather strap, and the back bears the engraving "For 40 years of service Johnson Matthey Group."

I heard her scream ... it was horrific

COURT REPORTER

star@hertsessexnews.co.uk

THE jury in the trial of a man accused of murdering his heavily pregnant ex-girlfriend this week listened to evidence from a witness who the prosecution claim heard the screams of the victim as she was beaten to death.

Travis McIntyre, who lives near the spot in Howard Way where 20-year-old Eystna Blunnie was allegedly killed by her ex-fiancee Tony McLernon, told Chelmsford Crown Court: "I have never heard a scream like it before. It was horrific."

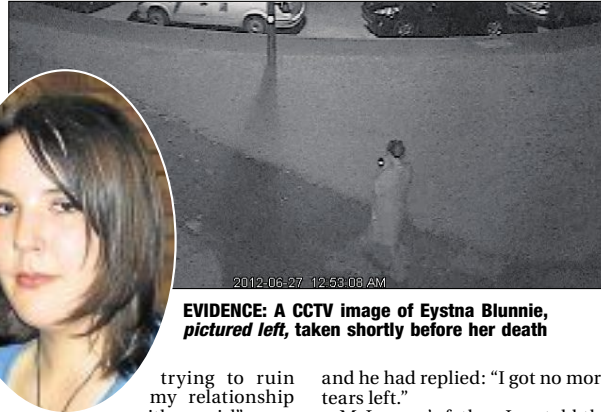

"It was like every thump I heard, every whack. I could hear the whack in the scream. There must have been three of those at first. I describe it as like someone hitting something hollow, like hitting a hollow tree."

"The scream changed. A continuous sound and then a bang in the sound so I knew she was getting hurt, attacked. The screaming stopped as I went to get in my van but the thumping, the banging never stopped."

McLernon (24), of North Grove, Harlow, denies murdering Miss Blunnie in the early hours of June 27 last year near a bench at the junction with Arkwrights. She was 40-weeks pregnant at the time and due to give birth to their daughter - who also died - a few days later.

The prosecution claim that McLernon, fuelled by alcohol and cannabis, was angry that Miss Blunnie had texted his current girlfriend. The jury was told McLernon had bullied and been violent towards Miss Blunnie since their relationship began in April 2011.

In one text to a friend sent on June 23, McLernon had said he was going to "knife" Miss Blunnie. In another message sent to a cousin he said: "I swear I'm going to prison Monday. My ex is proper trying to ruin my relationship with my girl".

The court heard evidence from lorry driver Eric Golding, who was travelling along Howard Way at 2.50am when there was no traffic or other pedestrians around.

He said he saw something in the road near a pedestrian crossing and stopped. "Something caught my eye," he said. "I saw a person to the right, a male, take off - he hit the panic button straight away on the other side of the turning to Arkwrights. I saw his back. He was definitely in his 20s."

"I got out the cab and tried to get a response from the person in the road but there was no response. I dialled 999 for an ambulance."

The prosecution claim that after killing Miss Blunnie, McLernon told friend Karen Winnis that Miss Blunnie was dead and he was "having a bad day."

Ms Winnis said McLernon told her he was "the last person to see her" and that if the authorities found out he had done it he would "do time for murder."

"I asked him if he was the last person to see her and he said 'yes'. I suggested he could be in trouble because he was the last person and it could be down to him. He lost his temper."

She said she had given him a hug and he had replied: "I got no more tears left."

McLernon's father, Ian, told the court he received a series of text messages and phone calls from his son in the early hours. One read "f, call me please" while in another he wrote: "Scared, call me xx".

Mr McLernon told the court he phoned his son who said: "I think I've killed Eystna".

Yesterday (Wednesday) a Home Office forensic pathologist ruled out the possibility Miss Blunnie had died after being hit by a vehicle.

Dr Nathaniel Carey said she had died from head injuries due to multiple blunt force impacts to the head and face. She had widespread bruising to the brain and it was likely those impacts were through "punching or kicking or stamping or a combination".

He said she had no fractured bones which would be expected in a road traffic collision.

Referring to Miss Blunnie's unborn baby, Dr Carey said a post mortem examination was carried out on the foetus at Great Ormond Street Hospital. He said it was at full term and had been healthy.

McLernon denies murdering Ms Blunnie and a charge of child destruction by wilfully causing the death of an unborn child. The defence is expected to open their case today (Thursday).

Council urged to bid for Enterprise Zone funding

COUNCIL chiefs in Harlow have welcomed news that Government funding is being made available to boost the development of the town's proposed Enterprise Zone.

Whitehall is calling on EZs across the country to bid for a share of £59m to help speed up the completion of key infrastructure projects.

Harlow Council and its partners have identified schemes needed to help generate private sector investment and job creation in the Harlow Enterprise Zone, which is split across two sites at London Road and Templefields

North East.

These include a new M11 junction and other road improvements throughout the town, creation of a MedTech Innovation Centre in partnership with Anglia Ruskin University and the development of an Advanced Manufacturing Excellence Centre.

The Enterprise Zone, which has the potential to create up to 5,000 jobs, will focus on businesses from the health and allied industries, advanced manufacturing and information communication technology sectors.

Harlow MP Robert Halfon said:

"The EZ will unlock thousands of new jobs over the next few years, supported by a new junction on the M11 - something that I have campaigned very hard for since 2004.

"I strongly urge Harlow Council to bid for a generous slice of this £59m and also to keep the public regularly updated on progress."

Council leader Mark Wilkinson said: "We believe that the Government investment will ensure that the Harlow Enterprise Zone can encourage investment from the private sector and create the jobs that are needed in the town."

It's not all jobs gloom as Poundland plans new distribution unit

bianca.castro@hertsessexnews.co.uk

BUDGET shopping chain Poundland has unveiled proposals for a 20-acre distribution centre at Pinnacles in Harlow.

In the same week as Tesco announced it was closing its Harlow fresh food depot with the potential loss of 800 jobs, Poundland unveiled plans for a new base in Harlow which is expected to provide work for more than 600 people by 2016.

The centre, which will service the company's stores across the UK, will be built on the site of the existing Pitney Bowes and GlaxoSmithKline buildings off Elizabeth Way.

A public exhibition of the plans and scheme drawings was held yesterday (Wednesday) at Harlow Town Football Club.

According to the application, the aim is to redevelop existing buildings and provide an "upgrade" in the quality of the landscape surrounding the new single storey centre.

Poundland's proposed plans form part of a £40m investment

IN FOR A POUND: The Pitney Bowes offices could be demolished to make way for Poundland's new depot for the company. Occupation of the building is scheduled for early next year.

Councillor Tony Durcan, Harlow Council's cabinet portfolio holder for regeneration and enterprise, said: "The news of Tesco's distribution centre closure is disappointing. Although this is clearly a huge blow, businesses continue to look at relocating and investing in Harlow.

"Poundland's proposed plans for Pinnacles and the Harlow Enterprise Zone prove this.

"This is a major proposal and the pre-planning application consultation by Poundland will enable residents to look at the proposals and to make their views known early in the process."

Harlow MP Robert Halfon added: "Obviously these plans are yet to be confirmed and accepted, but if it does go through - and I very much hope that it does - it will be the most fantastic news for our town and will create hundreds of jobs.

"Poundland is a fantastic store creating value for money and I urge that businesses and local support it as it could be the best thing to happen to Harlow amidst recent news."

Jobs to go as Tesco closes food depot

will take place before the final number of redundancies can be confirmed.

Both Harlow Council and local MP Robert Halfon are now seeking urgent talks with Tesco management over the closure plans.

Councillor Tony Durcan, cabinet member for regeneration and enterprise, told the Star: "This is disappointing news and our immediate priority is to support those affected.

"We will be working closely with Tesco to ensure local workers receive support, and we will also look to work with other organisations to provide information and advice on redundancy, retraining and applying for jobs to those affected."

Mr Halfon said he had arranged to meet with the Government's business minister David Willis to discuss ways of mitigating the impact of the depot closure on the local economy.

"This is truly shocking news and my heart goes out to all those hundreds of workers affected by this closure," he added.

"I have already contacted Tesco's management to express my disappointment at the plans and to seek assurances that as many staff as possible will retain their jobs in the move.

"Obviously this is very bad news for Harlow and I will be doing everything in my power to help staff get the support they need."

Readers' reaction

Tesco's profits have been falling, so what better way to make cuts than close this site and then employ temp workers at a cheap rate and let them go whenever they feel like it. The distribution centres do it all the time.

Ex-solicitor found guilty of contempt over McCann slurs

A RETIRED solicitor from Harlow has received a suspended prison sentence after publishing claims that the parents of missing toddler Madeleine McCann had covered up their daughter's death.

Tony Bennett (65), formerly of Chippingfield, Old Harlow, but now living in Ongar, was found guilty of contempt of court after a judge ruled he had deliberately flouted legal undertakings imposed in November 2009 barring him from repeating allegations about Gerry and Kate McCann.

At London's High Court on Thursday, Mr Justice Tugendhat said the 65-year-old's conduct was so serious that nothing less than a custodial sentence of three months suspended for one year would reflect the harm he had done.

"I am sure he intended to allege the claimants are to be suspected of causing the death of their daughter and did in fact dispose of her body, lie about what happened and covered up what they had done," said the judge.

He added he was satisfied Benn-

star@hertsessexnews.co.uk

It was in breach of the undertakings in each of the 13 representative instances before the court - out of 153 publications complained of.

He was not asked to make findings in relation to other alleged breaches.

He said the McCanns, who were not in court, had suffered injury to their reputations and feelings and had resorted to legal action not to punish Mr Bennett but to "make him stop".

Bennett, who was also ordered to pay legal costs estimated to be in the region of £300,000, had tried to get the case against him struck out as an "abuse of process".

He claimed the right to freedom of speech under the European Convention on Human Rights and said he had only repeated allegations made by others about there being no evidence of Madeleine's abduction.

But the judge dismissed his defence, reminding the defendant he was not being sued for libel.

"It is essential for the rule of law that injunctions and court orders be obeyed," he said.

"It can't be an answer that the person who is giving an undertaking or subject to an injunction can ignore it with impunity while it is in force."

Bennett, who asked for time to pay off the litigation costs, apologised to the court.

"I recognise the distress I have caused on a number of occasions to the claimants," he said. "I would like to apologise to them for that distress."

Councillor comes a cropper for charity

A GRATEFUL dad's mission to raise money for the hospital which saved his baby son's life has been given a head start with help from a local councillor.

Ian Beckett raised £700 for Sam Snelling's fundraising drive after losing his locks in a sponsored head shave on Saturday morning.

He took the plunge at Tangles salon in Bush Fair after reading about Sam's mission to help Princess Alexandra Hospital's neonatal intensive care unit in the Star.

Sam (29), of Victoria Gate, has been raising money for the unit ever since staff saved the life of his baby son Ralph, who ingested meconium - faecal matter in the amniotic fluid - during his birth, causing his lungs to collapse and kidneys to fail.

"Hopefully this will raise the profile of Sam's Mission, which is why I decided to do this," said Cllr Beckett. "With the fundraising now done, people will have helped raise around 20 per cent of Sam's target for the year, which is great."

To help Sam reach his £4,000 target, log on to www.justgiving.com/sam-snelling.

Son's disgust at elderly dad's wait for ambulance

AN 83-year-old man who broke his shoulder after a fall at home was left waiting two hours for an ambulance.

Raymond Morton, of Bush Fair, was getting dressed on Saturday when he fell badly and was unable to get back up.

The emergency services were called and the operator said an ambulance would soon be dispatched. After 30 minutes Mr Morton's son David called the emergency number again, only to be told no ambulances were available.

David (48), of Old Harlow said: "A rapid response vehicle arrived around 40 minutes after the first call but my dad couldn't be moved. He needed a stretcher and obviously rapid response vehicles do not have that.

"He was waiting in lots of pain and discomfort on the floor for around two hours and I'm disgusted by this. It is awful to have to wait this long for an emergency service.

"Dad is quite a frail man and he shouldn't have waited that long. An emergency can happen at any time; just saying it's a Saturday and it's busy is awful."

Gary Sanderson, a spokesman for the East of England Ambulance Service, said: "We received a call at 9.53am and it was coded Green 2, which is classed as serious but not life-threatening and requires a 30-minute response. The ambulance response car arrived at the scene at 10.23am.

"The majority of calls the trust receives are not potentially life-threatening and a response for a less seriously ill person would range between 20 minutes to an hour.

"Of course, when we dispatch an ambulance we try and get there as quickly as we can."

Being in debt is not a reason for banning people from housing list

SIR, I must respond to your news story about the housing list ban on lawbreakers (Star, February 14). There are two parts to this story, one of which I feel has been glossed over. Any person being convicted for certain crimes will not be allowed to join the register. While I agree with the changes to the policy, it already exists within the council for sitting tenants of this town and anyone being convicted of the same crimes could lose their homes. With this in mind, perhaps Cllr Rod Truan could tell the residents of this town how many tenants have been convicted of these crimes that have been committed and how many have been evicted from their homes? I am aware of the numbers from a few years ago and I think people would be astonished at the figures now. It also states within the new policy that any person who owes any monies to the council or private landlord will be excluded from joining the register.

There are many reasons for people to owe money and the council cannot just tar everyone with the same brush. In the current climate people are losing their jobs every day and, with rising costs, they are falling into debt. The council also shut the Welfare Rights and Advice Service, taking away much needed help for those struggling to make ends meet. This, however, is not a reason to ban people from joining a housing register and I do hope that a statement from the council will be forthcoming which confirms that every case will be investigated individually

Time to stop building unaffordable homes

SIR, One of the justifications for

Reader's photo of the week

THIS photo taken by reader Ellie Harbutt is a timely reminder that, despite the recent cold snap, spring is just around the corner. "My photograph of white and orange daffodils was taken in the spring of 2012 at Parndon Wood," writes Ellie, of Fennells, Harlow. If you have a photo taken in Harlow that you think is good enough to feature in the Photo of the Week section, we would love to see it. Email a high resolution copy in JPEG format, along with a description of your photo and details of when and where it was taken, to star@hertsessexnews.co.uk.

Please remember to include your name and address and insert 'Photo of the Week' in the subject line.

the proposed West Sumners development of 1,250 dwellings is that it was part of the Gibberd Plan.

When Sir Frederick Gibberd designed Harlow his overriding aim was to minimise motorised traffic, with each area having their own shops, pub, church, etc. There was no need for our road network to be overstretched. He designed our town in 1947 when car ownership bore no resemblance to today, yet his original road network still exists.

Our town is full to the brim and yet in recent years Harlow Council has initiated New Hall, Fifth Avenue, The Mews, Park Lane, Rank House and further projects under construction at Clifton Hatch, Prentice Place and Gilden Way. Then, on our borders, we have Terlings Park.

The town is in need of affordable housing for Harlow residents, not people from London seeking to make money by selling up houses in the capital and buying cheaper houses in our town.

If we cannot provide houses for the people of Harlow, why are we continuing to build unaffordable housing and adding to the overloaded infrastructure that is slowly strangling both commercial and residential life in our town?

Cash frittered away on staff 'uniforms'

SIR, As most readers will be aware St Clare Hospice is a charity caring for people living with a terminal or life limiting illness. It provides fantastic care for patients and their families providing physical, social, psychological and spiritual support.

As with every hospice, these services are provided free of charge to those receiving them. At St. Clare this costs £2.7m a year, of which only 24 per cent comes from the NHS. Imagine my surprise and dismay, therefore, when during one of my regular visits to the hospice shop at Templefields in Harlow I found staff had (unwillingly it was suggested) been fitted out with smart blue T-shirts and fleece jackets to show that they worked for the hospice.

I imagine that those employed at the Epping and Loughton shops have also been 'rewarded'.

I would suggest this was done without consulting the hundreds of fundraisers, donors and event organisers who are the backbone of this organisation, make up the funding shortfall and who most certainly would have been happier if the results of their hard work had been spent directly on the patients and their families rather than being frittered away in a demonstration of managerial ego by some out of touch bright spark at head office.

Labour's 10p tax pledge a PR stunt

SIR, Well, well, well, a week is indeed a long time in politics. On the same day the Star published my letter praising Robert Halfon for proposing the re-introduction of the 10p tax rate, we heard that Labour - having previously abolished the rate - has agreed to back the 10p tax pledge.

I am pleased Labour have admitted they made a big mistake and that they had hurt ordinary working people when last in government, but the question now is can we trust them to deliver on their promise?

When questioned on television, Shadow Chancellor Ed Balls refused to confirm that it was a manifesto commitment. In other words, the announcement was just another PR stunt, presumably with an eye on the Eastleigh by-election. Luckily, we in Harlow have an MP who is committed to helping those struggling to make ends meet. If Harlow's residents want a fairer tax system they had best put their trust in him.

Deficit an excuse to attack those in need

SIR, Guy Mitchinson has finally lost the plot (Letters, February 14). This cobbled-together Government has used the deficit as an excuse to make major attacks on the least well-off.

The pretence of such people as Robert Halfon to be helping the poor is cynical and infantile. Freezing council tax helps those whose home are in the higher bands rather than those in the lower bands. The 'under-occupation' cuts attack those on the most basic level. What is required is new bands of council tax but the Conservatives and Liberal Democrats shy away from that by spouting nonsense about a complete rebanding and everyone losing out.

Harlow has a desperate shortage of council houses for 'social tenants' but Halfon is spearheading a campaign to sell off more of them.

The town is awash with seriously under-occupied houses but the council can do nothing because they were bought under the Right to Buy. This was the deliberate policy of Margaret Thatcher to destroy council housing. Receipts from these sell-offs will no doubt be used to build some 'affordable' housing - that is housing which will be cheaper until it's sold on - but as the 'squeezed middle' could never hope even to generate a deposit on a mortgage, these builds favour those with money or with parents who have money!

Halfon's one notable campaign was to save drivers 3p a litre on petrol through a suspension of the 'fuel escalator.' A week after George Osborne's concession, the fuel giants put up prices by 4p a litre. If this is the best our MP can do, one must suggest that a cut in fuel duty only helps those who can afford to help those who can afford fuel or have a car. For those existing on a combination of state pension and small workplace pensions, it provides nothing.

As for the preposterous reasoning that, because a bunch of rich people evaded tax or took their business abroad, we should not have higher taxes provides us with a cycle of absurdity. The people involved, many of whom are not even British citizens, should therefore dictate government policy? Only a Tory could think so shallowly.

A while ago Robert Halfon started re-branding himself 'MP for Harlow and the villages'. This was because the Tories hoped to gerrymander the borders to create themselves a permanent majority by tying working towns like Harlow to a load of stock-broker and dormitory villages having no community of interest. When this attempt collapsed, his extended title suddenly disappeared.

Harlow is poorly represented. His colleagues believe that behind closed curtains hide the workshy rather than those who can't afford to use their heating. It wouldn't occur to them that people behind closed curtains are those who go out at two in the morning or work through the night for minimum wage so that their bins are emptied and their parliamentary seats are polished.

If Halfon believes in supporting working people, his best option is to move to the opposition benches!

Asked to pay the same for a reduced service

SIR, On February 7 Harlow Council agreed its budget for the coming year. One of the many cuts to services was to reduce frequency of green waste collections during winter months.

So you can imagine my delight when, a week later, on Valentine's Day, I received a letter from the waste collection team asking me for the £90 annual subscription for the fortnightly collection of my green waste bin.

Now surely both these statements cannot be correct. Has the council changed its mind over the saving? No, because there have been no more council meetings. So the letter must be wrong.

The council has no intention of providing me with a fortnightly collection throughout the year, so how can it justify asking for the same fee? The letter is seeking money under false pretences.

The leader of the council said at the meeting that he was proud to present the budget, the first Labour budget in 10 years. Is he equally proud of this attempted fraud?

Jane Steer
Orchard Croft, Harlow

Lessons of history must help to guide the future

SIR, While the headline 'Today's fight is different from that of 30 years ago' is a justified summary of the thrust of Cllr Tony Durcan's letter (Star, February 14), it is in itself a false statement and in more ways than one.

I was not a councillor 30 years ago; that came a year later in 1984. On looking into the record of events for that year I am reminded just how strongly Labour's council policy was then orientated towards bettering the lot of the whole community in every respect.

The period of calamity which I specifically drew attention to was in the years 1991-93. These were the years of rate-capping when we were severely tested as councillors.

In Cllr Durcan's letter, this period seems to have been marginalised when apparently set against the stresses faced by the present Labour group of councillors. Even so, I find it very difficult to understand in which way, if at all, the battles of today are significantly different in any aspect to those experienced in my time (1984-2000).

Cllr Durcan states that because Labour was not in control for 10 years prior to 2012 there is a lack of experience in the current majority group. In this view he mirrors part of a speech that I made last November at a well-attended public meeting regarding the Harlow Welfare Rights and Advice Service crisis.

The fact is that whilst Labour was not in control, it was never absent from the council chamber. Moreover, throughout 2011 Labour was openly and seriously expecting to regain control of the council after the 2012 elections, as did happen.

Cllr Durcan can describe himself as one of the most experienced of senior Labour councillors. Surely it must have occurred to him, if to no other senior Labour people, that a lot of attention needed be given to preparing their candidates for the expected task?

There is a well-known tactic in politics that when being effectively criticised on one matter you change the subject to something else and seek to patronise your critic in an effort to marginalise their credibility. The 'good news' paragraph in Cllr Durcan's reply to my criticism is an example of this ploy being used badly. It is flawed in as much as his proclaimed ability of Labour to now build council houses comes only as a direct result of the Tories' Localism Act which now regulates local authority housing.

Cllr Durcan excels when writing so sympathetically of one living in history, by implication not moving with the times and perhaps therefore deficient in a credible intellect. He tells me local government is now different to my time 30 years ago and that we can and should learn from history, but we can't go back and live in history.

I am not aware of anything in my criticism that advocates such a sublimely idiotic ambition. What I do believe is that the lessons of history do inform the present and should guide the future for genuine humanitarian progress. That is, of course, if we wish to avoid endlessly repeating the same mistakes.

It requires honesty, courage, determination and a sense of common social justice for all whilst righting or preventing further injustice. This is another area where Labour struggles in its desire to exert conventional control of Harlow Council.

Jim Rogers
Bishopsfield, Harlow

Ignoring the alternatives

SIR, How dare Labour councillors of this town implement the council tax benefit cut without the slightest regard for the consequences on those unable to pay it.

This move, unlike most of the draconian withdrawals of welfare services by central government, has a discretionary element - there are alternatives as many other councils have chosen. They have realised the poor and vulnerable it affects can't afford to pay it.

Will Harlow Council send in the bailiffs, issue court orders and push families into even greater difficulties? It is a sad day when financial policies such as this can be accepted by Labour councillors.

Police escort on day dream died for Hawks

chris.moss@hertsessexnews.co.uk

IT was the proudest moment in the history of Harlow Town FC - but could the Hawks do the unthinkable and top their famous victory over Gary Lineker's Leicester City side in the 1980 FA Cup with another giant-slaying win against Watford in the next round?

Around 7,000 Hawks fans travelled to London for the game - including a coach carrying then-chairman of Harlow Council Roy Collyer and the authority's football-mad staff.

Because of the huge amount of press interest in the game, police were remaining extra vigilant on the day, stopping vehicles at random as they approached the ground to confiscate alcohol and check for potential troublemakers.

The council's coach was pulled over, but when officers climbed aboard to conduct their search they were shocked to be greeted by Mr Collyer in his full chains of office!

According to fellow passenger and former council employee Ron Bill, the officer in charge was quite taken aback.

"There was a lot of trouble with hooliganism in English football at the time, and the police didn't want to take any chances," he told the Star.

CLOSE CALL: Hawks hero John Mackenzie comes close against Watford in the fourth round tie

"They were stopping vehicles at random to check for alcohol, but when they stopped us they were evidently quite shocked to find the chairman of Harlow Council on board!"

"They were obviously impressed by his chains of office, because the officer in charge said he would be honoured to provide us with a police escort for the rest of our journey!"

"True to his word, we soon found ourselves in the enviable position of being able to cut through the traffic with police outriders at our side - it was pure luck that we'd been stopped but we certainly felt like VIPs!"

Sadly, the Hawks weren't so fortunate, and Watford ended the team's incredible cup run with a 4-3 win against the Berger Isthmian League minnows.

But the game was far from one-sided, and battling Harlow Town pushed their opponents all the way to the final whistle in a match that saw Watford record its biggest attendance of the season.

Alfred's car stands out in town's empty streets

TAKE a stroll along most streets in Harlow today and you'll most probably see the same thing - scores of cars, vans and motorbikes lining the pavements. But it was an entirely different story back in the early years of the New Town, as this evocative photo brought in by reader Alfred Lubbock (88), of Tunnmeade, proves. Taken in 1955, it's a reminder of a time when cars were considered an expensive luxury, not a petrol-glugging necessity.

"I was the only person on my street to own a car back then," said Mr Lubbock. "I can't recall what type of car it was, but I remember it being a fantastic little vehicle." Mr Lubbock used his vehicle to commute to Sawbridgeworth, where he worked as a plastic moulder.

"Most people living on the road only had pushbikes back then because it was all they needed to get around, so it certainly stood out," he added.

"It looks so lonely in the photo, you almost feel sorry for it!"

Rotary's donation sets tails wagging

AN armed forces charity which turns pounds into hounds for injured war veterans has received a generous donation from Harlow Tye Rotary Club.

Allen Parton, vice chairman and founder of Hounds for Heroes - which provides specially trained assistance dogs to injured and disabled service personnel - was presented with a cheque for £1,100 after giving a talk to Rotarians at their Sawbridgeworth headquarters.

The Royal Navy veteran told members how his life changed forever after suffering devastating injuries during the Gulf War and how a yellow Labrador named Endal helped save his life and his marriage.

He was left unable to walk, speak or write and couldn't remember his wife or children, but with Endal's help he was able to make a gradual recovery and slowly come to terms with his disabilities.

Rotarian Don Cramphorn, who helped to raise the cash at a bake sale during the club's charity abseil last year, said: "For a man who has suffered such an awful injury, he was like a machine gun when he spoke to us about his incredible story."

"It was brilliant. Some of the people in attendance had tears in their eyes; it was a very emotional presentation."

Supersizer loses pounds and gains life-long friends

BIANCA CASTRO

bianca.castro@hertsessexnews.co.uk

A HARLOW woman who shed the pounds for a Channel 4 weight-loss show says she has got more out of the programme than she ever anticipated.

Joanne Leadley (42), of Shawbridge, was featured on Supersize vs Superskinny last month after tipping the scales at 22 stones.

Supervised by celebrity doctor Christian Jessen, she was forced to confront her excessive eating habits after swapping diets for a week with 'super-skinny' partner Ross Clarke.

The telephone consultant has since lost three stone - and gained some new friends along the way.

"I have become very, very close with some of the supersizers who were on the show and my super-skinny partner Ross," said Jo. "We all text every day and speak regularly. Twitter and Facebook means we're always up-to-date."

"It's a nice way of us all staying in contact with each other and giving that extra support that we need."

Last week mum-of-one

BEST OF FRIENDS: Joanne Leadley, centre, has kept in touch with Julie Henry, left, and Julie Menzies after they all appeared on television

Joanne met up with both Julie Menzies and Julie Henry, who have also appeared in this year's series, to catch up on how their new eating regimes are helping them.

"It's a lovely extra from being on the show to have made such wonderful friends," she said. "Ross and I will often talk and compare how we're both doing."

"The show has changed my life. It taught me so much about different food values and it's changed the way I look at food."

Joanne, who has now dropped four dress sizes, said she felt "humbled" by the support she has received from the public.

"The support really motivates you and makes you determined to carry on," she added. "I feel brilliant now and I've made life-long friends. I'm just happier and I will never go back to the size I was again."

Shoppers stump up for cricketers

HARLOW Town Cricket Club raised £644 for its junior section after spending a busy Saturday helping Asda shoppers pack their bags.

Children and parents helped the supermarket's customers in return for a donation, will all the money collected on the day going towards the general running of the club's junior section.

Rachel Forth, Asda's community life champion, said: "In this economic climate with very little spare money, I thought our shoppers were great in their support."

Night at the races for cancer charities

A CANCER survivor is hoping to have a successful night at the races as he raises cash for charity.

George Mole (76), a retired school bus driver who beat bowel cancer two years ago, organises the event every year for Prostate Cancer Research and Bowel Cancer Research.

The night will be held at Tye Green Indoor Bowls Club on Saturday at 7.30pm and all proceeds will go towards the two charities.

Bets cost £1 and six races will be shown on the night.

Lottery winners

THE winner of the £1,000 first prize in the St Clare Hospice lottery drawn on Friday, February 22 was the holder of ticket number 838633, who lives in Hattfield Heath. The second prize of £100 was won by ticketholder 620413.

Boot camp business fit for families

A FITNESS instructor who is making sure his customers don't stray from their New Year's resolutions is going from strength to strength in his first business.

Gary Stanley (36), from Church Langley, set up Stanley4Fitness in 2008 after working his way up the sport and fitness industry.

The company now offers group classes, one-to-one training and boot camps in Harlow and the surrounding area.

Gary runs the classes with wife Kate, who also trains youngsters in junior boot camp sessions, and fellow trainer Tom Day.

The father-of-two and sports science graduate said: "Stanley4Fitness is unique in that we build a community spirit and make sure that we are extremely supportive of everyone who is part of the classes."

"All our classes are designed to improve fitness and overall wellbeing. The programmes are high intensity, people compete with themselves to improve and we always have great feedback."

For more information on Stanley4Fitness visit www.stanley4fitness.com.

David's goal to help out former club

A FORMER Harlow Town FC manager is hoping to put a smile back on the faces of Hawks fans after launching a new teeth whitening business at Barrows Farm.

David Greene, who managed the team from 1995-1997, hopes new venture Costa Smiles can capitalise on the beauty craze while helping swell the coffers at the cash-strapped club.

"The club will receive £10 for every customer I get through the door," he explained.

"I was more than happy to do something to help them out. I spent two years here as manager and I've got some very happy memories."

According to David, who recently returned to the UK after spending seven years coaching football in Spain, it was watching ITV reality show The Only Way Is Essex that first inspired him to switch careers.

"I know [TOWIE star] Mark

chris.moss@hertsessexnews.co.uk

Wright from my time in Spain, so obviously I've followed the show closely since it first aired. It's really kick-started a craze for cosmetic procedures like tanning and teeth whitening, so I knew there would be a market for it."

David stressed the treatments he offered were "100 per cent safe" despite recent warnings over health risks associated with peroxide-based whitening gels used by some high street firms.

"All of my staff are fully qualified, we only use non-peroxide gels and our equipment is all completely safe," he said.

"We offer a professional, affordable service that can give you the smile you've always wanted without breaking the bank."

Five star award for chippy

HIGH FIVE: Joe Dizenzo and John Ansell show off the five-star hygiene rating certificate

A HARLOW fish and chip shop is frying high after receiving a five star food hygiene rating.

Mr Luigi's, in The Stow, picked up the accolade from the Food Standards Agency following an inspection earlier this month.

The family-run business, which has been open since 1989 and is owned by brothers Liberato, Tony and Luigi Forgione.

Liberato told the Star: "We're very pleased with our five star rating. We all work hard here and we like to keep the premises nice and clean so it's rewarding to have this recognition."

"Our main concern is our customers, which is why we haven't changed our prices for the third year running and we've tried our best to keep them low."

The shop will now be able to display its five-star certificate in the window.

"We look after our customers, we care about the business and we try to please everyone with our food, prices and service," Liberato added.

Town working to become 'dementia friendly'

HARLOW MP Robert Halfon is working with local charities and businesses in an attempt to make the town a 'dementia-friendly community.'

The first meeting was held earlier this month by Mr Halfon and the Harlow Alzheimer's Society with representatives from local and national businesses in attendance including Asda, Barclays Bank and St Clare Hospice.

'Dementia-friendly communities' is a five-year strategy by the Alzheimer's Society which focuses on improving the inclusion and quality of life of people who are suffering from the condition

Mr Halfon said: "The Alzheimer's Society said that small things which do not cost much can make a big difference to sufferers' lives.

"I want the next meeting to be even bigger than our first, almost like a mini conference. The more we do on dementia, the better."

River rescuers pull pensioner to safety

star@hertsessexnews.co.uk

TWO work colleagues who rescued a pensioner after he fell from his boat into freezing cold water have been praised for saving his life.

The 65-year-old slipped overboard near Rye House in Hoddesdon as he was tying his boat up to the river bank.

Steve Page, who lives in the Staple Tye area of Harlow, and work pal Gavin Butler were having a lunchtime drink in a nearby pub when the incident happened. At first they laughed it off but when they spotted the man clinging to the bank and struggling to pull himself out of the water they sprang into action.

They sprinted 100 yards down the river bank and managed to grab the man and drag him out to safety. The pair were aided by roofer Steve Cleak.

The pensioner, a retired welder who asked not be named, said he didn't know how much longer he would have lasted in the icy water without help.

"I just overbalanced when I was tying my boat up and I was in there for about 10 minutes or so," he said. "My legs were blue; the bank is quite high down there and there's no way to get yourself out."

"I really don't know how much longer I would've lasted in there. I was thinking about where I could go to get out and then I saw them running down towards me. "I'm really lucky - I'm not sure how they saw me out of the window, as it's quite a distance away, but I'm glad they came!"

After being pulled from the water, he changed his clothes

and was then given a cup of soup by staff at the Rye House pub.

The man later returned to the pub to buy his rescuers a pint of beer - but the embarrassed pair turned the offer down.

Steve (55), who works as chief mechanic at Hoddesdon Plant Hire, said: "The old guy had just come cruising down the river from the direction of Stanstead Abbots and pulled up and stepped off the boat."

"The next thing I saw was him disappearing behind the boat and a big plume of water come up. We sat there looking for a while and thought he must have pulled himself out, but then we noticed he was still in there so we ran down the river to the bit of the bank where he was. He was a good three feet down and hanging on for grim life."

Steve added: "When he had warmed up a bit he told us his legs had gone purple and he wouldn't have managed to hold on much longer because of the cold.

"He was on his own and luckily we spotted him because anyone on their own would struggle to get out. I've got a riverboat myself and I was saying the other day they should have a couple of ladders on the banks to give people half a chance of getting out."

Gavin, who owns Hoddesdon Plant Hire, said his actions were instinctive. "Steve spotted the old guy had fallen off the back of his boat," he said. "We had a laugh about it as you would, but then after a while we saw the boat was half drifting on its own and he was gripping on the side of the river half-dead."

"I honestly don't know how he survived, when we got him out he couldn't stand up and he was struggling to talk."

Former Labour minister guest at 'pizza' debate

PIZZA and politics was on the menu for Harlow College students on Monday as former shadow minister Tessa Jowell and Labour parliamentary hopeful Suzy Stride served up another hearty debate.

Discussions revolved around the UK's Olympic legacy and youth unemployment in the town.

The Labour hopeful said: "I think Tessa Jowell was great, she was important in bringing the Olympics to London and she spoke about how that legacy affects Harlow."

"It was fantastic to see so many people come along to what proved to be a very exciting event."

"So much was covered and it gave Harlow residents the opportunity to help shape future policy by suggesting ideas to Tessa and myself."

New recruits help to swell Scout numbers

HARLOW Scouts have spread their wings with the help of the Harlow Islamic Centre to get more young people in the town involved in the group.

The group's first meeting was held last Wednesday with 16 potential Cub Scouts.

It followed a successful taster day held at the Harlow Islamic Centre last month which was attended by more than 120 people and resulted in 40 people signing up.

Deputy district commissioner, Toni Mitchell, who has been a Scout leader for 25 years, said: "One third of the Scouts in the world are Muslims so it was clear that we shared the same values."

"Working together has given us a great opportunity to involve more people across the Harlow community in scouting."

Introducing Eddie, the hot-shot otter

MEET Eddie, the slam-dunking sea otter who's making quite a splash at an American zoo.

The 16-year-old marine mammal has taken up basketball and likes nothing more than shooting hoops all day long.

Eddie suffers from arthritis, a condition that can make joints stiff and painful, so his keepers at the zoo in Portland, Oregon, have trained him to play the sport in a bid to loosen up his aching limbs.

They taught him to shoot, rewarding him with a treat of fish each time he scored... and soon discovered Eddie was a natural.

"He learned really quickly," trainer Jenny DeGroot told reporters.

"He was scoring baskets the first week I trained him."

"Eddie almost never misses. If he does miss, he keeps going until he makes it."

The zoo in Portland decided to film Eddie showing off his skills and uploaded the footage to YouTube.

The clip of him slam-dunking the ball in his enclosure became an instant hit and has already received more than 100,000 hits on the video sharing website.

But unfortunately for visitors to the zoo, Eddie's basketball training all happens behind the scenes in a training pool accessible only to staff.

His trainers insist that the otter's slam dunks are not a circus trick but a healthcare exercise for Eddie.

Toothbrushing for your family

There are 1,440 minutes in the day. So when you put it like that, four minutes out of your or your children's day to brush your teeth doesn't sound like too much to ask for! Around one in four adults skip brushing their teeth at least once a day, and the average time spent brushing is JUST 45 seconds!!! Change your habits now.

There is evidence to suggest that the preventive action of toothbrushing can be maximised if the following principles are followed:

Children aged up to 3 years have supervised tooth brushing.

- As soon as teeth erupt in the mouth teeth should be brushed twice daily.
- Sugar free medicines should be used.
- The frequency and amount of sugary food and drinks should be reduced and when consumed limited to mealtimes. Sugars should not be consumed more than four times a day.
- Children under 3 years should use no more than a smear of toothpaste and must not be permitted to eat or lick toothpaste from the tube.

Children who are between 3 – 6 years should brush their teeth last thing at night and on one other occasion.

- Brushing should be supervised by an adult.
- Spit out after brushing but do not rinse.
- Sugars should not be consumed more than four times a day.
- Children between 3 and 6 should use no more than a pea sized amount of toothpaste.

All children and young adults should brush twice daily.

- They should brush last thing at night and on one other occasion.
- Use fluoridated toothpaste.
- Spit out after brushing but rinsing is discouraged.
- Sugars should not be consumed more than 4 times a day.
- Fluoride varnish, if appropriate, can be applied twice yearly by the dentist.
- Disclosing tablets can help to indicate the children the areas that are being missed.

All adolescents and adults should brush their teeth systematically twice daily with either a manual brush with a small head and round end filaments, a compact, angled arrangement of long and short filaments and comfortable handle or a powered toothbrush with an oscillating/rotating head. Flossing is good.

Brush up on beating tooth decay and gum disease

TOOTH decay and gum disease are still very common and cause nearly all of us problems at some point in our life – but it really needn't be like that.

Regular visits to your NHS dentist and providing a little tender loving care to your teeth in between visits are all that is needed to ensure your teeth and gums remain looking good and feeling good. After all, nobody wants decaying teeth and bad breath, do they – particularly when they are so avoidable.

Around a third of adults and children still have tooth decay in the UK. Gum disease is the largest cause of tooth loss in adults, and it's something you're likely to get at some point in your life.

Poor oral health doesn't just cause problems inside the mouth. A smile is hugely important to our personalities, self-confidence, relationships and success.

Here is a snap-shot of the reasons to have better oral health

- 25% of adults don't brush twice a day, including a third of men
- People who only brush once a day are a third more likely to develop tooth decay
- 29% of the population suffer from regular dental pain
- 31% of adults have tooth decay
- 66% of adults have visible plaque
- 6% of adults have no natural teeth

- 74% have had a tooth extracted
- 84% have one filling or more
- Over three in every ten children starting school (31%) have tooth decay.
- A third of children aged 12 have visible dental decay
- Teeth/smiles are rated the second most important attraction feature, after personality and the most important body feature.

Children's Oral Health

Children need to eat regularly, and so nutritious snacks between meals are an important part of the day. The best snacks to serve are free of added sugars which can damage teeth if eaten too often throughout the day. Peeled and chopped fruit and vegetables eaten on their own or with a dip of natural fromage frais are worth a try. Dairy foods, such as cheese is particularly good for teeth, or plain yoghurt with added fresh fruit is a tasty alternative for children. Plain biscuits, such as water biscuits, breadsticks, cream crackers are all preferable as they are high in unsaturates. These are all safe snacks for teeth.

Full fat cow's milk is the most nutritious option for a snack time drink, from 12 months onward. Chilling, and allowing children to pour out their own servings from a jug, can increase its attractiveness. Tea, Coffee, fizzy drinks and colas (regular and diet) should be avoided

To find out more about accessing NHS dental services in your area, please go to www.nhs.uk or contact your local Patient Advice and Liaison Service (PALS) on:

Eat and drink but be sure to think

Studies have shown that food and drink are associated with erosion of teeth. There is likely to be individual variation in response to erosive effects of acids. The variation may be due to quantity and quality of saliva, individual habits with regard to frequency of eating and drinking, oral swishing, frothing and retention and toothbrushing after acid intake. Studies have shown that the following types of drinks, foods and medication have erosive potential:

- Drinks containing citric acid – e.g. orange, grapefruit, lemon, blackcurrant
- Carbonated drinks
- Alcopops and designer drinks
- Cider
- White wine
- Fruit teas (but not camomile)
- Some sports drinks which contain acid
- Acidic fresh fruit that are consumed with high frequency
- Pickles
- Chewable vitamin C tablets, aspirin, some iron preparations

How to enjoy a healthy smile

Visit your dentist regularly – A check up with your dentist at least once a year is crucial. Not only will they be able to identify oral health problems but it is also the perfect opportunity for a professional teeth cleaning.

Maintain a healthy, balanced diet – The best recipe for strong teeth is a healthy and balanced diet. Eat plenty of fruit and vegetables and avoid acids that can cause dental erosion. Smoking and excessive alcohol intake are best avoided as they can cause serious health problems.

Brush your teeth twice a day – Brush your teeth just before going to bed and at least one other time each day. However, do not brush immediately after consuming sugar rich foods or drinks. Ask your dentist which brushing technique, toothbrush and fluoride toothpaste is best for you.

Avoid dry mouth – Everyone has a dry mouth once in a while sometimes as a result of medication. It's more than uncomfortable, as it can increase your risk of gum disease, tooth decay and mouth infections. Chew sugar free chewing gum for 20 minutes after eating or drinking to promote saliva flow and sip water regularly.

Take care of your dentures – All teeth, whether natural or replacement, deserve the same attention. As regular toothpaste is not recommended for full and partial dentures, use denture cleaner or white hand soap, but never use hot water. To keep them in top shape, don't wear them at night and check their fitness regularly.

Clean between your teeth daily – A toothbrush can't reach everywhere. Use mouthwash and interdental cleaning aids, such as floss or interdental brushes to help remove food and plaque, where they build up between the teeth. Also remember to clean along the gumline, where teeth and gums meet.

Bad breath – We all get bad breath from time to time, from smoking, from what we eat or drink or because of an infection in the mouth. You can often tell that you've got bad breath by an unpleasant taste in the mouth. Brushing your teeth or chewing sugar-free gum will help but if it continues visit your dentist as you might have an infection that needs treating.

Remember: your oral health is part of your overall health and your quality of life – Maintaining good oral health helps you to avoid oral diseases and costly treatment. By taking good care of your teeth you also take care of your body, keeping up good oral hygiene habits is a great way to help you lead a healthier life and enjoy better overall health.

Frequently asked questions

What treatment can I get on the NHS?

Check-ups, x rays, fillings, dentures and extractions are all available on the NHS, as well as many other treatments such as orthodontics. Because most family dentists offer both NHS and private care, it's a good idea to check, before your course of treatment begins or you pay for any treatment, whether you are being treated as an NHS patient. The cost of NHS dental care is set by the government, not by the dentist, and so is the same across the country.

Am I entitled to NHS dental treatment?

NHS dental care is available to everyone, but you will need to find a dentist who has the capacity to see you. The majority of NHS dental patients have to pay for their treatment, but you may be entitled to a reduction or even free treatment.

Am I still registered with my dentist?

The Government's changes mean that patients will no longer be registered with their dentist, but this does not mean that you cannot continue to see your usual dentist. When you ask for an appointment your dental practice will offer you one as soon as possible at a convenient time.

Can I get free dental treatment?

Most NHS patients will have to pay for their treatment, but some may be able to get a reduction or even get their treatment for free:

NHS dental treatment is free to:

- Children and young people under 18
- Those under 19 in full time education
- Mothers with a baby aged up to 12 months
- Anyone receiving income support or family credit
- Families with a certificate for full help with the cost of NHS services

If you are on low income you may be able to get treatment for free or at a reduced cost. Ask your dental practice for an HC1 form or pick up an HC11 form. Dental treatment is free to pregnant women and for the first year after your baby's born.

Can a dentist refuse to carry out NHS treatment?

A dentist has a fixed capacity of NHS treatment and although there are no longer registration lists a dentist may not have the capacity to see you. If this is the case you will need to contact your local dental team which can put you in contact with another dentist who may be able to see you on the NHS or go to www.nhs.uk.

Will I be charged if I miss my dental appointment?

While a dental surgery can't charge you for not turning up, your dentist has the right to ask you to find another surgery if you continually miss appointments, usually after two or three "no shows" in a row. More importantly, by not turning up, you will stop someone who really needs a dentist from being seen. This is why it is important to give as much notice as possible when cancelling an appointment.

Do I need a check up every six months?

It used to be recommended that people see their dentist for a check-up every six months, but the national guidelines changed in 2004. Adults are recommended to have a check-up at least once every two years, and children at least once a year. However, your dentist will recommend how often you should see them, based on your current dental health. See the National Institute for Health and Clinical Excellence (NICE) website for more information about 'when your next dental check-up should be'.

Teachers - get your teeth into National Smile Month

National Smile Month is the UK's largest oral health campaign. This year it kicks off on 20 May and finishes on 20 June. Right at the heart of it you'll find three key messages that can go a long way to improving oral health.

To support any activities you may hold in the classroom, there's a wide range of educational material available. From motivators, puppets and FREE (yes FREE) downloads, National Smile Month has it covered. If you need a reason to bring National Smile Month to the classroom, here are a few to get you thinking.

- Three in every ten (31 per cent) children starting school will do so with tooth decay
- One in three children aged 12 will have visible dental decay

That means for primary school teachers, their children will start with tooth decay and leave for secondary school no better than when they first started. Not a nice thought is it?

With National Smile Month you can engage all the children in the classroom and the website can help you to achieve a great deal, even on the most limited of budgets. Go to: www.nationalsmilemonth.org

Foodbank bags cash from shoppers

HARLOW Foodbank has bagged a generous donation of £1,590 from Waitrose.

The supermarket in Bishop's Stortford raised the money through its Community Matters scheme, where shoppers are asked to pick their favourite charity using tokens given out with purchases.

Gary Knott, of Harlow Foodbank, said: "This money will go towards the overall running of the foodbank. "We're working with the Bishop's Stortford team to consider a separate foodbank there, so the money will help both groups greatly."

Advice service in funding plea for court fight

SUPPORTERS of Harlow's embattled welfare rights and advice service have launched a fundraising drive as the organisation prepares to take its fight for survival to the High Court.

HWRA is seeking a judicial review of Harlow Council's decision to terminate its contract and evict the service from its Advice Centre headquarters in West Square.

Last week it lodged a formal application to start legal proceedings.

Supporters of the service claim they were left with no other option following the council's refusal to mediate.

More than £3,500 has already been added to a fighting fund set up by support group The Friends of HWRA (FoWRA) through fundraisers and private donations, including a sold-out quiz night at Princess Alexandra Hospital Social club last month which raised £700 alone.

But while the group has secured pro bono legal advice from solicitors and barristers, court costs and legal representation fees mean they still need to raise more cash.

Supporter Judy Chan, who organised a

chris.moss@hertsessexnews.co.uk

soup lunch and a Dutch auction to raise money for the fighting fund, said: "So many people provided items for our auction and sent in donations that I was left in no doubt that HWRA's cause was supported by countless Harlow people.

"If [council leader] Mark Wilkinson really wants to listen to the voice of Harlow electors and council taxpayers, he should reverse the decision to lock the service out of its building."

FoWRA is now appealing to local clubs, groups and organisations to help raise further funds.

Group chairman Cliff Moore said: "We hoped that common sense would prevail and that proper mediation could start.

"There are moral as well as legal issues that need to be addressed. After all, it is Harlow residents who will suffer through loss of this service and the money it has brought into the town."

Donations can be left at the office of Harlow Credit Union, based on the first floor of Harlow Central Library.

Police appeal for information on jewellery burglary

DETECTIVES are appealing for information following a burglary in Harlow

Intruders broke into a house at Halling Hill through a rear door some time between noon on Friday and 5.30pm the next day.

They stole a quantity of jewellery valued at a four-figure sum, including a yellow metal-hinged bracelet, a white gold wedding band cut and a yellow metal small solitaire diamond ring.

Anyone with information about the break-in should contact Detective Constable Jo Lanz at Harlow CID on 101.

WIN pair of tickets to the Telegraph Cruise Show

THE Telegraph CRUISE Show at London Olympia on March 23-24 is a must for anyone wanting to discover a world of voyages

Perfect for those new to cruising and needing help to plan their first voyage or seasoned cruisers looking for inspiration for their next holiday at sea, this is the UK's biggest cruise showcase.

And this week we are giving you the chance to win one of 10 pairs of tickets to the show.

All the major and specialist cruise lines are under one roof. Hear directly from the cruise experts about what's new for 2013/2014 and save thousands of pounds with the exclusive show only offers.

Whether you enjoy sailing in six-star comfort, visiting remote destinations, have a spirit for adventure or prefer relaxing in the most modern resort-style ships perfect for the whole family, then The Telegraph CRUISE Show is the place to be.

To enter the competition all you have to do is answer this simple question: Where is The Telegraph CRUISE Show taking place?

Visit our website at www.harlowstar.co.uk and click on the 'Competitions' link under the 'Newspaper' tab. Be sure to enter Star Cruise Show in the competition line or your entry will be discounted.

The closing date for entries is noon on Wednesday, March 6.

READER TICKET OFFER: We are also offering readers reduced price advance tickets to the show. Get your tickets for only £4 (that's a saving of £6 off the door price) by quoting 'HARLOWSTAR' when booking tickets online at www.cruisingshow.com or when calling 0871 620 4024 (calls cost 10p per minute plus network extras). Advance tickets go on-sale on March the 22nd at 1pm.

WIN a pair of tickets to see Wallace & Gromit

AFTER a sell-out show at 2012's BBC Proms, everyone's favourite dynamic duo are heading on tour this Easter with their live, interactive show - Wallace & Gromit's Musical Marvels.

Go behind the scenes as Wallace prepares for his musical masterpiece 'My Concerto in Eee Lad' with help from his faithful canine companion Gromit. What could possibly go wrong?

This unique experience features new specially filmed animations as well as live orchestral accompaniment from the Aurora Orchestra, who will be entertaining audiences with classical favourites by Mozart, Debussy and Stravinsky.

As a special bonus there will also be a screening of the multi-award winning Wallace & Gromit film A Matter of Loaf and Death with the soundtrack performed by the orchestra live on stage.

For a chance to win one of five pairs of tickets to a performance of the show at the Hammersmith Apollo on either March 31 or April 1 (subject to availability) all you have to do is answer this simple question: What kind of animal is Gromit?

Visit our website at www.harlowstar.co.uk and click on the 'Competitions' link under the 'Newspaper' tab. Be sure to enter Star Cruise Show in the competition line or your entry will be discounted.

The closing date for entries is noon on Wednesday, March 6. For more information about the show, visit www.wallaceandgromitmusicalmarvels.com

Get ready for Spring

Out with the old and in with the new in season of change

SPRING is the time of year when many things change. It's a time of promise and a chance for a new start or a fresh look, whether you're thinking of your home, your garden, your wardrobe or just your attitude!

For many of us the sight of daffodils poking their cheery yellow heads through the soil heralds the end of the dark, cold months and it's no coincidence we have a spring in our step as we look forward to the promise of the longer, warmer days.

This is the season to start getting outdoors again, pulling on your wellington boots and gloves and planting seeds in the hope of fabulous floral displays in your garden.

But as the spring flowers come into bloom and the birdsong gathers momentum, our homes can often look as if they're stuck with the winter blues.

Spring cleaning is a time-honoured tradition that allows us to freshen up our homes and welcome in the new season.

One of the highlights of spring cleaning is getting rid of clutter you don't need. Take advantage of the natural urge that comes each spring to get rid of items that are weighing you down and begin fresh with a more streamlined lifestyle.

While we may have a tendency to hoard and hold on to items in the winter, we are naturally more inclined to let go of it when spring arrives. Cleaning is a great deal easier when the clutter is gone.

Likewise, when it comes to fashion, the change in season is a great time to start thinking about putting away the dark winter woollies and looking forward to the brighter colours and styles of spring.

Predicted trends for spring 2013 include bold prints and bright colours.

It's certainly not the season to be going back to black, so if you're planning on a clear out, now's the time to start.

Keeping a sense of perspective can be challenging when the pressure is on, but the key to this week is not creating a picture in your mind that things are worse than they really are. Also, someone can be very reassuring, so even if one situation has or does concern you, their support can cheer. Remain resolutely positive or at the least stoical. You might find yourself with an option, or at least a decision to make, and in both cases it can seem like you may have to lose something. However, part of this may come from the fact that you dislike giving up on long term goals, and you need to allow yourself to be more flexible and not feel guilty if you are. Social plans may also be disrupted or change. Call me now for your in-depth forecast...

Gemini May 22-Jun 21
Your ruler Mercury remains in reverse, yet despite the potential for misunderstandings, with Venus right alongside for three days this week, it will be important to utilise the contacts you have, and to reach out to people who are knowledgeable and helpful. Yet perhaps you should avoid trying too hard. So, as Ringo Star sang, just Act Naturally! Call your prediction line for more news and advice...

Cancer Jun 22-Jul 23
Being conscientious and caring means that you can often put yourself out for others. Yet strange as it seems, this is probably a week when you should steer clear of making pledges to help out. Instead, continue your embrace of all that is new, fresh and most of all, liberating. The freer you feel, the more you can do what you have to do, with a light heart. Call for more astral advice...

Leo Jul 24-Aug 23
The Quarter Moon continues to provide a potent backdrop, suggesting there could be some disharmony if you feel your efforts or generosity seem unappreciated by the beneficiaries. But then part of the lack of feedback could be unintended, and with Venus vibrant this week, perhaps you need to give one person the benefit of any doubt Leo. Call for more news and astral advice...

Virgo Aug 24-Sept 23
You can get some mixed responses this week. Someone close to you could be moody and unresponsive, or you may find yourself caught between two people who are not seeing eye to eye. Whilst there can be some misunderstandings, equally there can be some sweet moments. You probably need to focus on what goes well, and ignore what doesn't. Call now for more news...

You can do many things in such an apparently gracious way, yet how often does this serenity belie your true feelings? Yet this week, even you could find it hard not to get too caught up in "people pleasing". To counter this, less really is more. Narrow your focus, and do what is essential, but resist all inner urges to be perfect or perfect in anyone else's eyes. Call for more astral advice...

Scorpio Oct 24-Nov 22
The temptation to spoil those you love can be enormous, or will you be approached for some form of help? Chances are, if this does happen, you will be on the end of some flattery. Try not to get seduced by this, or this person will never learn to take responsibility. In love however, there can be sweet nothings or nothing sweet! Call your prediction line for your love scope in full...

Sagittarius Nov 23-Dec 21
Creating a more comfortable environment where you live continues to be quite a theme. Yet if you want everything your own way, someone may resist this. Negotiation, and especially of the sensitive variety, will work better than anything else, though if one person sulks, the air could become thick with tension. Try to keep communications open. Call for more news and advice...

Capricorn Dec 22-Jan 20
Words, be they spoken, texted or emailed, remain the main currency for you this week, and of course, are vital all the time. However, you could create a very good impression with how you express yourself, or conversely say something that later you may regret. This is also a time to keep anything confidential just that. Your discretion will be appreciated. Call now for more advice...

Aquarius Jan 21-Feb 19
Venus is known as the planet of love, but its energies help us to attract many good things, including money. And this week for three days, a mix of enterprise and personality can do precisely this for you. Yet the Quarter Moon suggests that you may have to deal with some people who might not be your preference. If so, keep a sharp eye for their tactics. Call now for your in-depth forecast...

Pisces Feb 20-Mar 20
If you pursue a more individualistic route, you need to be realistic that this may attract some doubters or opposition. Should you abandon your approach simply to keep out of the limelight? No, just accept that singleness will be inconvenient to some, and perhaps threatening to others. Just take the bumps and keep on with a focus on your goals. Call for more news and advice...

Am-dram stalwarts living Life Of Riley

TERMINAL illness might seem an unlikely subject matter for a comedy, but in the skilful hands of Alan Ayckbourn it's the perfect platform for a riotous comedy.

His 2010 play Life Of Riley, which opens Harlow am-dram group Moot House Players' landmark 60th season next week, is a perfect example of the prolific playwright's ability for wringing laughs out of the most sombre of occasions.

As a group of friends gather to support gravely-ill pal George Riley through his final days, they look back on the lives they have lived - or might have lived - unaware that he is plotting a high-flying final farewell which threatens to upset all their futures for better or for worse.

Despite being the protagonist

of the piece, Riley never appears on stage - although the disruptive effects he has on those around him are all too evident as he uses his last days to try to put a spark back into their flatlining relationships.

Woven into the plot are his closest friend Jack (Alan Hodgson) and his put-upon wife Tamsin (Catriona Macleay), George's estranged wife Mary (Angela Hodgson) and her jealous partner Simeon (MHP chairman Geoff Leeds), not to mention his first love Kathryn (Bridget McAlpine) and her browbeaten husband Colin (Michael Rees), who just happens to be George's GP. This tale of love, friendship and desire is presided over by director Jon McNamara, who has helmed a number of the group's past Ayckbourn productions.

"This is classic Ayckbourn, with great characterisation and observational comedy," he said. "It's not through luck that he has such a broad appeal. He's a master of creating believable characters with whom we can easily identify."

"We've had great fun in rehearsals and I'm confident audiences will find it just as engaging."

● Life Of Riley opens at Moot Hall in The Stow on Thursday, March 7 for a three-night run. Tickets cost £8 (concessions £6) and are available from (01279) 639170.

Students on song for live date with soul superstars

STUDENTS from Burnt Mill Academy will be sharing a stage with soul superstars The Drifters next week as the legendary quartet raise the roof at Harlow Playhouse.

The group are hitting the road to celebrate their 60th anniversary and will be backed by the First Avenue school's choir at next Friday's concert.

The band's current line-up - X Factor finalist Ryan Taylor, soulful tenor Michael Williams, multi-talented musician Carlton Powell and booming baritone Pierre Herrelle - held a singing masterclass at the school on Monday afternoon in preparation for the live show.

Pierre told the Star: "We have worked closely with schools in the past as part of our management company's musical education programme and we are very much looking forward to working with the students."

"We've been completely overwhelmed by their enthusiasm and excitement. It's a very special project to be involved in."

● The Drifters will be appearing live at the Playhouse at 7.30 pm next Friday (March 8). Tickets cost £26 (£24 concessions) and can be purchased from (01279) 431945.

Optician's artistic vision

A FORMER optician with an eye for art has unveiled his latest vision at a new exhibition at Parndon Mill.

Ross Loveday, who ran a practice in Old Harlow from 1971-2001 before giving up his day job to focus on printmaking, will be showing examples of his recent work at The Gallery until April 7.

The multi award-winning artist takes his inspiration from the dramatic landscapes of the East Anglian coast to create striking drypoint and carborundum prints.

"The location itself isn't that important," he said. "I want to convey an atmosphere, the transient mood and light of the four seasons and feeling of a place rather than its description. The subjects are only the starting points."

● Lines Of Vision runs at The Gallery on Parndon Mill Lane until April 7 and admission is free.

What's on at The Square

TONIGHT Fans of Foals and Vampire Weekend are in for a treat tonight as Incoming welcomes back the shimmering trop-pop of achingly hip Bristol-based five-piece Coasts. Support comes from swagging indie mob The Branco Heist and thunderous alt-rockers Vivid Nation. Doors open at 8pm and admission is £4 (free for members)

FRIDAY The Heroes gang present a rabble-rousing tribute to US punk legends Green Day. Made up of four best mates dedicated to smashing out Billie Joe Armstrong and co's greatest hits, Dookie have built up quite a reputation for their high-octane live shows and pitch-perfect covers of classics including American Idiot, Basket Case and Longview. Doors open at 8pm and admission is £6 (£5 members).

SATURDAY The Square cranks it up to 11 tonight as death punk collective Stallone bring the noise with help from Harlow's very own post-hardcore terrorists Concave. Your ears have been warned! Doors open at 8pm and admission is £6 (£5 members).

Violent fairytale a full-on blood-soaked gory story

HANSEL & GRETEL: WITCH HUNTERS
certificate 15, 1h28m

DIRECTOR Tommy Wirkola puts a bloodthirsty new spin on the classic fairytale in this gleefully violent fantasy.

Hansel & Gretel: Witch Hunters does exactly what it says in the snappy title - expands the story of two children held hostage by a crone in a gingerbread house into a full-blooded battle between the forces of good and evil.

The script marries action movie convention with an olde-worlde setting, providing the titular heroes with an arsenal of pithy one-liners as they despatch the enemy.

Hansel (Jeremy Renner) and his feisty sister Gretel (Gemma Arterton) had their first encounter with witches as children when they stumbled into a house made of delicious candy.

Through luck and enterprise, the siblings flush the diabolical crone into her oven, establishing their reputation throughout the land as protectors against the dark arts.

Hansel and Gretel grow up with a hatred for these shape-shifting creatures and devote every waking minute to hunting down witches with their ingenious homemade weapons.

When several children from one sleepy village go missing, Sheriff Berringer (Peter Stormare) blames local woman Mina (Pihla Viitala) and prepares to burn her as a witch.

The eponymous heroes intervene in the nick of time and Gretel settles the argument with a headbutt, freeing Mina who takes an immediate shine to smitten Hansel.

The siblings then set about tracking down powerful grand witch Muriel (Famke Janssen), who is kidnapping local tykes as a sacrifice during the forthcoming night of the Blood Moon.

The witches are aided by a hulking ogre

BLOOD RELATIVES: Jeremy Renner and Gemma Arterton star in HANSEL & GRETEL: WITCH HUNTERS

called Edward (voiced by Robin Atkin Downes), who carries off children into the night.

With the odds stacked against them, Hansel, Gretel and an enthusiastic protege (Thomas Mann) lay their lives on the line to save the children and send Muriel and her coven back to hell.

With lashings of gore and potty-mouthed humour, Hansel & Gretel: Witch Hunters is no slavish retread of the Brothers Grimm.

Wirkola splatters one crone's guts all over the camera lens and another set-piece reduces a swarm of the villainesses to chunks of airborne flesh and entrails.

Renner and Arterton dispatch their prey with the occasional well-timed aside, both enjoying the physical aspects of their roles.

However, frenetic action sequences cannot compensate for flimsy plotting and a paucity of character development.

NEW York cop Billy Taggart (Mark Wahlberg) takes down an unarmed suspect and faces a prison sentence for his apparent lapse in judgment.

It looks like an open and shut case until popular Mayor Nicholas Hostetler (Russell Crowe) steps in with a deal, making clear to Billy that he expects a favour in return.

Seven years later, Billy is a low-rent private detective and owes 42,000 dollars - the situation is dire. Out of the blue Hostetler, who is embroiled in a bitter election battle with charismatic rival Jack Valliant (Barry Pepper), calls in his marker: he asks Billy to gather evidence to prove that his wife Cathleen (Catherine Zeta-Jones) has been unfaithful.

A simple surveillance operation reveals a hotel room liaison between Cathleen and Paul Andrews (Kyle Chandler), manager of the Valliant campaign.

Her betrayal seems clear but then Andrews is murdered and Billy grapples with the chilling probability that he signed the campaign manager's death

Delightful four-bed Victorian house with period features

coverproperty

Location New Road, Old Harlow

Category Four-bed detached Victorian house with period features, built-in wardrobes, garden with two patio areas

Guide price OIEO £425,000

Agent Intercounty, Bank House, 37-39 High Street, Old Harlow. Telephone (01279) 639666

HAVING been beautifully restored, this week's cover property is a delightful Victorian four-bedroom detached house in New Road, Old Harlow.

The house has many period features but has been brought up to date with much care and attention.

Step through the front door and into the entrance hall where there is attractive tiled flooring and stairs to the first floor.

Doors lead off to the dining room which has sash windows to the front, a feature fire surround and wooden flooring.

This room opens into the kitchen area with a stable door and a sash window to the side. There are wall and base units with rolltop work surfaces, a gas hob and double oven and an integrated fridge/freezer and dishwasher.

Stairs lead down to a cellar which provides a large storage area with lighting.

In the lounge there are French doors to the rear garden, a cast iron fire with decorative fireplace and built-in storage cupboards and wooden flooring.

Upstairs on the first floor landing there are stairs to the second floor and doors off to two of the bedrooms.

Bedroom one has two sash windows to the front and built-in wardrobes. Bedroom two overlooks the rear and also has a built-in wardrobe and a changing room.

Also on this floor is a bathroom with a rolltop bath. Next to this is the shower room/WC.

There are a further two bedrooms on the second floor. To the front of the property there is block paving with iron fencing and a gate. A pedestrian gate gives access to the side of the property and to the rear garden where there are two patio areas. The remainder is mainly laid to lawn with mature shrub and plant borders.

New Road is a great location close to shops and Harlow Mill train station.

This property is on the market with selling agents Intercounty. Call the Old Harlow branch office on (01279) 639666 for full details or to arrange a viewing appointment.

Tracey Waples Property Editor

THE HOME Builders' Federation, which modestly describes itself as "the voice of the home building industry in England and Wales" has published some rather alarming figures which make sense but do nothing to uplift the spirits of those saving for a deposit on their first home.

In a new report, the federation says that young people need to save for more than a decade before they can afford to venture on to the property ladder. Not surprisingly, this situation is even worse in London where the average young person in their 20s is forced to save for 24 years to raise the deposit for their first home.

Twenty-four years! When I was a twentysomething I thought anyone 24 years older than me would more likely be thinking of moving into an old people's home rather than onto the housing ladder.

It's no wonder the Home Builders' Federation warns we are creating a locked-out generation.

In England, it says the average person between the age of 22 and 29 has a monthly income after tax of £1,274, but most of this money must be spent on rent, council tax and utility bills. After paying these bills, they are left with an average of £557.

If they were to save half of the remaining income (and how many do you think will manage that once they've paid for their food and other bills?) it would take 126 months to save a deposit.

The report assumes they put down a deposit of 20 per cent on the average first-time buyer's home in England, currently £35,000 on a property costing £175,000. With the higher prices in London it would take 289 months.

You can see why the majority of first-time buyers who get on to the housing ladder today are only successful because they are helped by their parents.

On the market for £219,995

LOCATED within the sought-after New Hall development at Great Auger Street, this fabulous split-level apartment has a wealth of contemporary features.

There are two double bedrooms, with a wet room off the master bedroom, as well as a lovely sunroom with views across the countryside.

The kitchen features a range of eye and low level units with an integral oven and hob, fridge freezer and washing machine.

The property is on the market with Geoffrey Matthew. Call the Harlow office on (01279) 444988 for full details or to arrange a viewing.

Superb condition for £314,994

THIS immaculate link-detached house at Herons Wood in Harlow, has been lovingly cared for to create a tasteful family home.

There are three bedrooms and an attractive lounge/diner.

The good-size garden is just as well looked after as the interior. There is a garage and driveway to the front. Herons Wood is located to the north side of town, opposite the rugby ground and near the town centre. It is under a mile from the station.

Call Howick & Brooker Partnership on (01279) 418888 for full details or to arrange a viewing.

Guide price £190,000 - £200,000

THIS pretty two-bedroom home at The Gardiners - a cul-de-sac on the outskirts of Church Langley - is ideal for a couple or young family.

On the ground floor there is a lounge/diner which opens into the kitchen where there is a window and door to the rear garden.

On the first floor are two bedrooms and the family bathroom.

The back garden includes a patio area and timber shed, while to the front of the property there is a lawned area and two allocated parking spaces.

Selling agents Haart can provide full details or arrange a viewing. Give them a call on (01279) 443311.

Yours for £179,995

LOCATED at Seymours on the western edge of Harlow town centre and close to open countryside, this attractive home has been well looked after and has the benefit of good size rooms.

The lounge has been modified to create a smaller room and a bedroom but this space could easily be converted back into a main room. There is also a large modern kitchen/diner and a cloakroom.

Upstairs are two double bedrooms, a large single bedroom and a refitted shower room with double shower.

The low maintenance, west-facing garden features a large patio area and there is allocated parking.

Call Mackay Property Agents on (01279) 600567 for full details.

How Many Should I See?

When looking for a property, it is natural to want to see as many as possible before making the "right" choice and common sense dictates that a handful of alternatives should be viewed before buying.

Our job as professional estate agents is to help buyers make decisions that are genuinely in their best interests, which, without our assistance, they might have had difficulty making. So here are some pointers for those buyers who might be struggling to balance the merits of No.33 with its new kitchen against No.16, with the better garden.

First, there is a place for instinct and sometimes the heart should be allowed to influence, if not rule, the head. This is a home after all and not a stock-market share. Ask yourself the obvious question, "Could I be happy here?"

However, sometimes you need your head to agree with your heart. Is your favoured property a significant improvement on where you already live, or are you just being bowled over by a smart exterior or fashionable lighting?

Weigh up the important aspects of life - commuting time, school run, parking, entertaining space (although do you really entertain that much?) Satisfy these first before allowing the view or the extra storage space to sway you away from your reason for moving.

Finally, you can bet your bottom dollar that if you instinctively like a particular house, other buyers will as well. We usually find that a property that fills most people's basic needs, as opposed to their wants, will sell very quickly. The more you see, the more difficult it becomes to make a decision at all. So our advice is: decide your minimum criteria with your head and once these are satisfied in a property, let your heart take it from there. Happy hunting!

JUDGING from all the initial press reports, it would appear that Mercedes has hit the jackpot with its CLS Shooting Brake.

The second-generation saloon, or four-door coupe in Mercedes-speak, that preceded the Shooting Brake also got the thumbs-up and set the stage for a long-awaited alternative to the conventional premium estate car.

With the basic CLS Shooting Brake consisting of two diesel models, it's clear that beneath the sleek exterior it will still be considered by many as a workhorse vehicle.

Sure enough, the car's powered tailgate and wide, flat load bay ensure that it can swallow a fair amount of stuff – 590 litres of space in regular trim and 1,550 litres with the rear seats folded. It can't match the more practical, and less streamlined, E-Class but that won't be an issue for buyers seeking a more stylish yet still versatile alternative to a large box on wheels. And as sure as day follows night, the introduction of a new Mercedes is often swiftly followed by a muscular AMG-tuned version. Mirroring the CLS four-door's high performance variant, the Shooting Brake also

Fact File

Mercedes-Benz CLS 63 AMG Shooting Brake

from £83,030

ENGINE: 5.5-litre petrol unit developing 557bhp
TRANSMISSION: 7-speed automatic transmission driving rear wheels
PERFORMANCE: Top speed 155mph, 0-60mph in 4.3secs
ECONOMY: 28mpg
CO² RATING: 235g/km

gains the very same AMG 5.5-litre turbocharged V8 petrol motor. Mercedes might appear to be powering ahead with a slew of AMG-badged cars, but in the firm's defence there appears to be no shortage of demand. North America, Asia and the Middle East are enthusiastic customers, even if Europeans wince at the price of fuel these days.

That said, Mercedes and AMG have made considerable improvements in this regard and it's the main reason why power comes not from the old 6.2-litre V8 but a turbocharged 5.5-litre V8. Fuel consumption and emissions are down while the added push from the turbos delivers greater real world flexibility for low speed driving and overtaking.

On paper the car produces 557bhp plus a healthy 530lb/ft torque. Dragster-like behaviour is guaranteed thanks to those figures and sure enough 62mph can be reached in 4.3 seconds and the limited top speed is the usual 155mph.

Despite this hooligan-like performance, fuel consumption is an impressive 28mpg. Granted, spirited real world performance will likely see that dip, while CO² is an equally reasonable 235g/km.

On the road the CLS Shooting Brake delivers a surprisingly comfortable ride for something with so much potential. The option to switch between suspension settings gives you the flexibility to firm things up when conditions allow.

The now familiar AMG seven-speed sports auto transmission can be left in D for most of the time, while four modes offer increasing degrees of shift response, plus there's the ability to play with a pair of chunky steering wheel-mounted paddles.

Explore the car's various settings and you can get it to behave or wag its tail like a drifting champion. With the latter, progress is always predictable, which is doubly impressive for a car of this size. Playing it straight also reaps rewards; the CLS is surprisingly agile and feels much smaller than it really is.

The car's steering is precise and, even in the firmest setting, the suspension does a good job of dealing with surface imperfections.

The switch to a turbo motor might have reduced the decibel count inside the cabin – good for relaxed motorway cruising – but it only takes a quick prod of the throttle pedal to change all that. The result is proof that, despite the need to chase down emissions and fuel consumption, the AMG engineers still know how to make fast cars fun to drive.

That the CLS sounds good when at full chat is another plus point over some of its more clinical rivals.

For all the car's performance attributes, the CLS Shooting Brake just as easily appeals to your practical side. Like its four-door cousin, the Shooting Brake confidently swallows a full compliment of adults, while the rear doors open wide enough to make access and egress straightforward. The car's wide, flat load bay and easy-open tailgate further reinforce its versatile character.

In AMG tune, Mercedes' CLS Shooting Brake is no go-faster trinket but a genuinely capable load-lugger for all but the most demanding of owners.

Rapid to the point of being supercar-fast in the right hands yet versatile enough to justify its price tag if you only want one quick car in the household, sometimes a niche car can be capable of generating widespread appeal. mly car that ticks so many boxes.

Scrap

End of the road for your vehicle?

Responsible drivers scrap their vehicles at an Authorised Treatment Facility (ATF).

Because only an ATF can legally scrap a vehicle. That means any pollutants will be made safe before it's recycled in an environmentally friendly way.

What's more, for certain types of vehicle you'll get a DVLA approved Certificate of Destruction (CoD). A CoD proves that the ATF has told DVLA your vehicle has been scrapped and so is no longer your responsibility. www.direct.gov.uk/motoring

End of the road? Get over it and move on with your local ATF:

B & T Motor Salvage

We offer free collection, on the same day if necessary, using our own recovery vehicles and issue a Certificate of Destruction from the Department of Vehicle Licensing Authority via our direct link to their website. Payment per vehicle negotiable.

For items under £250 in the Herts & Lea Valley Star,
Harlow Star, Mercury Series and the Observer Series

To advertise your articles for sale for the price of just a phone call or text, just follow these two simple steps...

1 Before calling us, write down all that you want your advertisement to say. There is a minimum of 12 words per advert, but you can have as many classified adverts as you need. Remember, strictly one item per phone call and the item must be priced at £250 or less. Any items received that do not carry a price will not be published.

2 Now call us on 0905 624 2025
LINES OPEN 24 HOURS PER DAY SEVEN DAYS PER WEEK.
This service lasts approximately two minutes, plus the length of your message. Calls charged at £1.02 per minute plus network extras; calls from mobile will cost considerably more. Service provided J-Media (UK) Ltd.

or text 87070

Start your text with HEN then your advert to a maximum of 20 words. You do not need to add your phone number unless it is different to the mobile used to text the advert.

Example: HEN (space) G. Plan two piece suite, two seater sofa and armchair, super condition £99. Charged at £1.50 per text plus normal network charges. Only one item per text.

If you have any queries relating to advertisements placed via this service please call our helpline...

Cycling sisters could race each other!

AS the outdoor cycling season gets into full swing later this spring, Emma Trott could find herself racing against her sister, Laura, who has signed for the all-women's side Team Wiggle-Honda.

Emma has a hectic schedule as she competes with her Dutch-based road team Boels-Dolemans alongside side fellow British star Lizzie Armstrong.

So the Mercury asked the 23-year-old if she has given any advice to Laura? "No she can sort that one out herself!" joked Emma.

"It's nice to have her on the road and maybe race against her - but she's just another rider as far as I'm concerned."

She added: "Just so long as my teams win I don't care who I'm racing against."

Emma, who took up cycling when she was aged 10, said her big ambition for 2013 was to compete for medals in the team time trial World Championship in Italy in September.

Golden girl Trott racks up a hat-trick of world titles

LAURA Trott added another gold medal to her collection as she played a key role in helping the GB women's team pursuit to their third title in a row at the UCI Track World Championships in Minsk, Belarus.

Joining Dani King and Welsh teenager Elinor Barker the trio rode brilliantly to see off Australians Annette Edmondson, Amy Cure and Melissa Hoskins on the second day of the championships.

Harlow-born Trott led out the team and initially it seemed the Aussies had the edge. But at the halfway stage she was awarded an OBE after winning double gold at last year's London Olympics, put her foot on the accelerator and injected more pace.

With King and 18-year-old Barker riding in perfect harmony, the GB trio were flying and coach Paul Manning looked on in delight track side as the Aussies couldn't respond.

The title holders crossed the finish line in 3:18.140, considerably slower than the world record of 3:14.051 set at the London Olympics last August, but it was over a second faster than the Aussies who clocked 3:19.913.

After dismounting their bikes the GB trio hugged each other emotionally and were delighted with what they had just achieved.

Trott, who made it a hat-trick of team pursuit world titles, said: "It was really hard, but it all seemed to flow really nicely which was good."

"We changed a few things after qualifying to make it a bit easier and smoother for the final and it paid off."

"Our times were spot on - if somebody couldn't stay out then we went to the front, it was really good."

"We've made this event our own, the only time we've lost it is back in 2010. It's just amazing - this has topped it off for us."

"Obviously we wanted to win, but to win it for the last time is just amazing."

Trott's team-mates were equally over the moon. "It was all about staying composed and we stuck to our guns. It means everything to me to win - we've worked so hard."

Trott is no longer the baby of the team, with Barker having taken up that mantle. Barker said: "I feel really overwhelmed. I can't believe I've won. It hasn't sunk in yet, I'm shocked. It's above and beyond what I've dreamed of."

Earlier in the day the team set a blistering pace in qualifying, topping the standings with a time of 3:18.704.

The diminutive Harlow-born racer said that tinkering with the format of the pursuit could compromise the quality of the event.

"It just annoys me because it will just lower the standard of the event because not every country in the world will be able to get four girls let alone five to."

"When it comes to the Olympics it's three rounds so people chop and change - we didn't but we could have - so it will just lower it."

"It's nice to have a race like at the Worlds between us and Australia where we're head to head for 10 of the 12 laps, but imagine not having that - it could be us against a 'lesser' nation and we win by miles. It wouldn't be so much fun."

"Changing it to four also changes the dynamic - we will have to train for longer."

"When we go to Majorca for example, we do these specific efforts which are three minutes flat out, that will have to change to four minutes and then it's a 20 minute thrash up a hill now that's going to be 25 - it does change the training quite a lot."

Despite all of this Trott is looking forward to the new format.

"I am quite excited about it, giving it to four people, but it's just in terms of racing I think there will be less in it."

Trott will now turn her attentions to racing on the road.

"I'll have a week off straight after the Worlds and then I'll start building again for the road," said Trott. "My first race is on April 1."

Rams youngsters in Essex call-up

TWO Harlow Rugby Club U-14 players have been selected to play for Essex.

Lock Liam Jones and Jarod Bates will play for Essex against Norfolk this Sunday.

Both featured for Harlow U-14 when they beat Sudbury 51-22 at home in a rearranged Essex League division two game.

Jones ran in Harlow's first try and the first of six for him.

There were four subsequent first-half tries for Harlow. Three were scored by Jones and skipper Jarod Bates got the other.

Jack Snell slotted two conversions.

In reply, Sudbury scored one unconverted try and the Rams led 26-5 at half-time.

The second half Sudbury saw bounced back to score three tries and a conversion. Harlow's tries came from Bates, Tom Spencer and Jones (2). Jordan Newborough kicked one conversion. Harlow are second backs.

Harlow U-16 drew 41-41 with Wanstead in a friendly. Harlow's tries were scored by Daniel DeFranca, Rhys Whitby (2), Liam Somerville, Adam Seeley, Jack Almond and Charlie Green.

The Harlow/Bishops Stortford U-15 girls team drew 19-19 at Old Albanian the RFU Women's Junior U-15s London & SE A League.

Harlow Ladies beat Chelmsford

STRONG defence and good team play provided the platform for Harlow Ladies rugby team when they beat Chelmsford 17-5 at home in the RFU Women's National Challenge South East division.

Harlow, who tackled very well, went ahead after 15 minutes when lock Tracey Lee powered over for the hosts' first try.

Sarah McCarthy set up Amy Spearpoint for the second try.

Harlow led 10-0 at half-time.

On 45 minutes Lee was yellow carded for an offence.

Chelmsford applied more pressure but were resisted a very good interception by the Harlow fly-half, Sarah Stimpson, who ran 60 metres to score a try under the posts.

Spearpoint slotted the conversion for a 17-0 point lead.

Chelmsford came back onto the attack and a good break by their centre produced a try just one minute before Harlow returned to 15 players.

Despite more Harlow pressure there were no more tries.

Harlow are third in the table.

Laura's Hammer blow ends with silver medal

LAURA Trott was forced to settle for a silver in the multi-discipline omnium at the UCI World Track Cycling Championships in Minsk after a poor result in the points race on the first day of competition left her down the field.

The Harlow-born racer made up for lost ground in the elimination race as she timed each lap with perfection until it was just her and arch-rival, American Sarah Hammer who were left in the field, and won the sprint to the line by a an emphatic margin.

But Hammer was consistent in all the events and had built up a virtually unassailable lead on 14 points, with Trott in the silver medal position on 20.

The final event, the 500m time trial, saw Trott relying on Hammer slipping up to have any chance of retaining gold.

It didn't happen as Hammer clocked 36.053 over the two laps to take sixth with Trott fourth (35.675).

The American topped the final standings with 20 points, with Trott second on 24 and Australian Annette Edmondson third (26).

It was sweet revenge for Hammer who took silver at the Olympics behind Trott.

Trott said: "I did my best and the better rider beat me on the day. What more can I do?"

"I just need to do more work on the group races. I'm really pleased to have come out of these champs with gold and a silver."

Green's three 180s a first for darts league

DARTS

DAMIAN Green achieved something never done before in the 37 years that the Harlow & District Premier Darts League has been running when he led his ServoLink side to a place in the Team Knockout final.

Green, pictured above, hit three 180s in consecutive shots in the pairs - a feat never achieved before since the league was formed in 1976.

League leaders Link now have their eyes on the double after their 5-2 semi-final victory over Buccaneers.

They will meet Stow Snooker in the final.

They also won their last four clash 5-2 against TG Whites.

Whites took the first leg, but Stow won the next four legs before Whites pulled one back.

Taking the third leg in pairs Stow won 5-2.

Robbie Wheeler (Stow) shot out on 124.

In Servo's match, the score was level at 2-2 as Link won both fours.

The points in the first two pairs were shared and Link progressed after winning the third pair thanks to Green's brilliance.

The final will be held on Friday April 26 at Tye Green Indoor Bowls Club in Bush Fair.

Owen ignites FC Flare in cup final

FA FLARE 4, PARSLOE
ATH RES 2
HARLOW AND DISTRICT
LEAGUE DIV FIVE CUP

FC FLARE lived up to their name as they overcame Parsloe Athletic to win the Harlow & District League Cup Division Five Cup final. Flare went ahead in the 15th minute when a pass from player-of-the match Kwasi Offei pass released captain Gary Owen who placed the ball past Parsloe keeper Lee Wilkinson.

The advantage was doubled 10 minutes later. Offei's pass teed up Owen on the edge of the box, who placed his shot into the bottom right corner.

On 40 minutes Parsloe's Kenny Evans scored from a penalty awarded after Stuart Cowell fouled Ben Johnson just inside the box.

Parsloe made it 2-2 on 48 minutes. A ball bounced in the box and Ben Johnson reacted quickest to level from 4 yards.

FC FLARE RESERVES: Cup winners

Flare regained the lead on 60 minutes when a Shane Brett free-kick was tucked home by Offei.

Flare went 4-2 up on 75 minutes when Brett volleyed home from 30 yards. Flare boss Glenn Thomas said: "The better team won. Shane's goal for the 4th was one of the best goals I have ever seen."

FC FLARE: Arrowsmith, Ledain, S. Cowell, M. Cowell, Jeffries, King, Usedon, Brett, Williams, Offei, Owen (c) Subs used: Tarran, Clarke, Baker, Cooke, James, Cook, James.

Avon call tune for final spot

HEATH Rovers missed out on a place in the final of the Bishop's Stortford, Stansted & District Football League Premier Division Cup as they lost a five-goal thriller against Avondale Rangers.

Kyle Murray and Chris Slater replied for Rovers.

In the premier division, George Sydes and Joe Mariutto were again on target as Northolt won 3-2 at Frontiers. Dan Sibley replied for Frontiers.

Hertfordshire Rangers went down 3-2 at home to Parsloe Athletic. Parsloe netted through Chris Bartlett, James Waggit and Terry Foskitt.

Steve Ashman struck for Sheering in a 1-0 home win against Harbridge Athletic.

In division one, top-of-the-table Hatfield Heath were held 1-1 at home to Lower Street.

Albury drew 2-2 at home to E F Lakers.

Birchanger beat Avondale Rangers reserves 2-0 at home.

Fairways Corinthians were handed a walkover win against Sheering reserves, as were North Weald in their match at Potter Street.

Akande hits sweet spot to grab late leveller in derby

WALTHAM ABBEY 1,
HARLOW TN 1
RYMAN, DIVISION ONE NORTH

A LAST-gasp Michael Akande volley saw Harlow Town grab a share of the spoils at the end of a dire derby at Waltham Abbey, writes ALASDAIR GOLD.

Sometimes teams cancel each other out in derby matches and this was very much the case on Saturday afternoon amid light snow flurries and dropping temperatures.

It was the first football match to grace the Capershots ground in more than two months due to a problem waterlogged patch in the far corner of the pitch.

There are plenty of connections between Abbey and Harlow, with many players and staff having worn the colours of both clubs.

Rather than the ferocious tussles such close relationships can often produce in the heat of a match, this encounter was more a gentle meeting between old friends with little in the way of chances or quality.

Harlow were awarded a penalty on 16 minutes when Joakim Ehui's flick inside the box hit an Abbey hand and the referee pointed to the spot. However, Danny Brown's kick was too central and Abbey keeper Jake Whincup pushed it away to his left and to safety.

Whincup showed excellent handling throughout the game.

Harlow's new signing, striker Ehui, thought he had scored when a ball across the six-yard box fell to him and he blasted it powerfully towards the top right corner from close range. However, Whincup made a magnificent flying tip-over save.

Abbey opened the scoring on 42 minutes when Jack Daveney connected perfectly with a volley, which proved too hot to handle for Harlow keeper

SWEET AS AKANDE: Hawks defender Michael Akande

Bertrand Bossu and the ball rolled from his grasp and over the line.

The second half provided even less in the way of chances to warm the freezing 112 supporters in attendance. The action got bogged down in midfield with plenty of hit and hope passing from both sides.

Piers Wixon forced Whincup into a good save, palming around his right post on 72 minutes.

A Wixon free-kick flew wide before

Christian Wheeler headed off his own line after a scramble from a Harlow corner with five minutes to go.

The equaliser arrived two minutes into added time as the Abbots conceded two late corners and Ehui curled in the second for the unmarked Akande to volley powerfully home.

The draw was probably a fair result as Harlow moved a point further away from the danger zone.

Hawks assistant boss Paul West-

Hook said: "It was a bit disappointing we did not win.

"We deserved to get the three points. We created more chances and should have been 2-0 up at half-time."

He added: "Danny Brown missed a penalty but it was a good save."

ON THE ATTACK: Nick Moss in action for Harlow Hawks

Hawks the take sting out of Scorpions

HARLOW Hawks took the sting out of Stevenage Scorpions to avenge their defeat to the north Herts side earlier this season. The game started scrappily, although Lee Jones did a good job stopping their main scorer in the first quarter. Stevenage opened up a lead and despite back-to-back three-pointers from Shab Niaz and Nick Moss for the Hawks, the hosts were 16-7 up at the end of the quarter. Roan Lenihan and Rimantas Norkeliunas stepped off the bench with an explosive impact as they both hit three pointers and attacked the basket for scores. With the Hawks scoring more freely – and defending well – the visitors were back in charge. Harlow were on a roll as Russ Stonehouse added six unanswered points as the Hawks turned a nine-point deficit into a 33-26 advantage going into the half-time break. Moss and Stonehouse attacked the basket, scoring eight from 10 attempts. Lenihan and Norkeliunas again provided the offensive to keep the score board ticking over. Great team effort on the defensive end saw the Hawks keep the Scorpions scoreless for small pockets of play, which led to the home side taking their frustration out on the referees. Hawks could sense they had Stevenage on the ropes and duly delivered the knock-out blow in the fourth quarter after opening up a 52-40 lead. Harlow struck first in the final quarter as they continued to find ways to get to the free throw line and make their shots showing great composure. Scorpions changed their defence to a zonal system in which the Hawks initially struggled as they passed the ball round the outside looking for ways to penetrate. Jones bailed Hawks out with a jump shot just as the shot clock expired to keep the pressure on. The visitors continued their defensive effort which halted any chance of a come back and gave them a much-needed victory. HARLOW: Moss (18pts), Lenihan (13pts), Norkeliunas (13pts), Stonehouse (9pts), S. Niaz (7pts), Allan (3pts), Jones (2pts), Svedas (2pts), Spashett.

Hawks slip to defeat at the hands of Warriors

HARLOW Hawks were unable to exploit a good first quarter and slipped to a narrow home defeat (72-79) against Herts Warriors in division one of the Hertfordshire Basketball League. Both teams had good moments at the start of the first quarter in Friday's clash. The Hawks started the better of the two teams in Friday's clash. The visitors opened up a 4 point lead, but the Hawks responded with an 11-2 run of their own, which saw smart interior passing with Lee Jones, Russ Stonehouse and Russ Allan all benefiting with inside scores. Dave Spashett provided the ammunition from three point land to give the Hawks a balanced attack. The first period ended with the Hawks leading 20-15. The second period couldn't have been any different from the first as Harlow's offence struggled to score with any consistency. Rookie Roan Lenihan stepped off the bench to knock down a couple of shots and Rimantas Norkeliunas was a nuisance inside. He either converted rebounds to points or got himself to the free throw line. Hawks were scoreless for the last five minutes of the half, while the Warriors poured in 15 points to take the lead. At the halfway stage the Warriors led Harlow by seven points 36-29.

The third quarter started much better for the home side. They added seven quick points to close the gap early, with Stonehouse and Norkeliunas finishing the plays at the rim. Spashett again showed good form from beyond the arc as he nailed another three pointer. Suedas showed some aggressive play as he attacked the basket from the wings with great success. It was Suedas who added the last points of the quarter to put the Hawks right back in the contest. The visitors only led by one point (52-51) going into the last quarter and there was everything to play for. There was little to choose between the teams as they both traded baskets. A real team effort came from the Hawks with a number of different scorers. On the defensive the home side had trouble dealing with the dribble drive as the Warriors penetrated to the heart of Harlow's defence. This either resulted in a score or a trip to the free throw line. With only three minutes to go there was still only one point in it. A dagger three pointer and a pair of free throws from the visitors opened up a 6 point lead with a minute to go. Hawks chased, hussled and harried but time just ran out for the hosts as victory was snatched from their grasp. HARLOW HAWKS: Norkeliunas (13pts), Stonehouse (12), pashett (11), Suedas (11), Moss (8), Allan (6), S Niaz (5) R Lenihan (4), Jones (2), Burgess.

Alemite into last eight of Saturday Premier Cup

ALEMITE Athletic will face Essex Olympian Football League senior division one side Wadham Lodge away in the last four of the Essex Saturday Premier Cup on March 9. This was after Alemite beat Hannakins Farm 2-1 away in the quarter-finals on Saturday. The visitors went 1-0 up when Anthony James fired in an Adam Dangerfield cross from the right. Shortly before the break James turned provider for Ricky Cooke to shoot home. Hannakins netted a goal on 70 minutes but Alemite had done enough.

Injury-time goal robs Harlow

THE Hawks felt robbed after hosts Aveley scored a late winner in the third minute of injury time to take the points. The score was 0-0 when Michael Akande was adjudged to have stopped substitute Petrit Elbi's attempt on goal. Elbi stepped up to fire in a fantastic free-kick from the edge of the area for the play-off contenders sending Harlow into despair. It came after the visitors had more than held their own in Monday's clash at Mill Field. Hawks assistant boss Paul West-Hook said: "We did not think it was a free-kick in the first place. We were a bit hard done by. "We have a more settled side now and we can take positives from this. It showed that we can compete at this level." Early action saw Hawks striker Piers Wixon have a shot blocked by Jay Leader.

At the other end, Bertand Bossu did well to take the ball away from Jordan Cox after the latter had pounced on a back pass. Harlow almost scored on 20 minutes when Danny Brown had a shot cleared off the home line by Aveley's Billy Holland. Aveley's Sheldon Sellars also fired wide after a neat one-two with former Bishop's Stortford wing Junior Dadson. The start of the second half saw Harlow's Joe O'Donoghue booked for a rash challenge on Jack Stevenson. On 55 minutes, a Brown header was cleared off the home line by Holland. Aveley went with four men up front in the last 10 minutes and created opportunities without creating too much danger before Elbi had the last laugh. West Hook added: "When they put their two wide men up front in the last 10 minutes it was four versus four defenders but I thought we coped well with that. "Thee players were gutted and felt that we should have got a point out of the game." Harlow remain 19th in the table. HARLOW TOWN: Bossu, Butler, Toonga, Akande, D Brown, Muguo, Hart, O'Donoghue, Ehui, Wixon, Das. Subs not used: Asamoah, Tamai, B Brown. At 84. ● HARLOW'S game against Waltham Forest has been switched from Saturday March 16 to Friday March 15. Hawks Club secretary Ray Dyer explained: "This is part of an experiment that the Ryman League are looking into for the coming seasons. "There could be one Friday night game each week."

RUNNING

TWO creditable performances came from Harlow Running Club members in the St Lukes Hospice Test Track 10 mile race in Basildon. Alan Broughton clocked one hour 6 mins 24 secs to come 26th from 330 finishers. He was followed home by club colleague Roy Steven who came 61st in 1:11.24. The race was held at Fords Car Testing Track. It was two laps long and there were 330 finishers. Meanwhile, Robin Lozeau completed the Gunpowder Park 5km run at Waltham Abbey in 24.38 finishing 21st. This was on Saturday. In the Torrevieja 10km in Costa Blanca, Spain – Vicky Steadman clocked 51.34. Jon Steadman also showed his stamina when he completed the Torrevieja Half Marathon in 1:39.54 coming 442nd from 944 finishers. The race was held on an asphalt surface, and comprised two laps, at sea level.

From Russia with love for Trott by GB cycling chief after silver medal

HARLOW'S Laura Trott might have had the limelight stolen away from her by a new star of the track at the World Championships in Minsk, but British Cycling head coach Shane Sutton is still delighted with the performances of the London Olympics star.

The GB team finished top of the medals table, with Trott taking gold in the team pursuit and a silver in omnium behind American Sarah Hammer.

GB ace Becky James took centre stage after winning double gold, however Sutton still singled out Trott for her achievements.

"Hats off to Laura given the commitments she's had before coming here," said Sutton.

"It's incredible what she's taken on for such a young rider, I'm just amazed that she was up in medal contention [for the omnium] given the commitments and that.

"She's a ball of energy, she's great to work with. Hammer got too far clear of her, but a podium for Laura is a tribute to her given what's happened to her since the [Olympic] Games - it's been life changing.

"She's got great family support and she's one of the nicest girls we've had here in the team for years. She's absolutely brilliant!"

Trott herself was more than happy to see the strength in depth of British cycling.

"It's nice to see that British cycling has that constant flow of riders coming through, that it hasn't gone stale," said Trott. "We're still developing people and it's not going to stop. Hopefully the success will carry on through to Rio."

Trott is no longer the youngest member of the team, and is delighted that the likes of teenager Elinor Barker (part of the gold medal winning pursuit team) have emerged.

"It's nice that Elinor has stepped up from junior team - she's done it no problem," said Trott.

ONE IN THE EYE FOR THE SELECTORS: Andrew Osagie was in brilliant form in a 1,000m race in Sweden (PA)

Snubbed star bounces back

ANDREW Osagie sent a message out after his snub from new British Athletics chief Peter Eriksson with a scintillating performance in his final race of the indoor season.

The former Burnt Mill School student bounced back from his disappointment in the 800m at the British Athletics Grand Prix in Birmingham by securing third in a 1,000m race in Stockholm, Sweden last Thursday.

He was competing in the XL Galan meeting, a warm-up for the forthcoming European Indoor Championships, also in Sweden.

The Harlow Athletic Club member's time was just outside the British 1,000m record and put him in the top 10 in his last three events.

Osagie clocked 2 minutes 18.78 seconds and got his own back on rival Michael Rimmer, who beat him at Birmingham last weekend.

The race was won by Djiboutian Ayanleh Souleiman, who clocked 2:17.05.

Osagie was surprisingly left out of the GB squad for the European Indoor Champs in Gothenburg which start on March 1.

However, he will have his confidence fully restored after his brilliant display in the Swedish capital.

This time was fractionally outside Osagie's best time in the 1,000m of 2:18.56, which he set in 2011.

Rimmer was fifth in the 1,000m in Stockholm in a time of 2:19.20. GB colleague Mustafa Mohamed, who also beat Osagie in Birmingham, was back in 7th with a time of 2:21.13.

Osagie tweeted: "3rd tonight in a time just outside the British 1000m record! Indoor season finished. Top 10 in the world in 3 events. Job done! #OsagieBoom"

Osagie, who turned 25 on Tuesday last week, certainly has a point to prove.

He left Birmingham last week bitterly disappointed despite clocking a season best. After his heroics at the Olympic Games, it was thought that he would still be named in the GB squad for the Euros.

However, Eriksson decided otherwise. But Osagie now looks back on top form and he will simply have to make sure Eriksson has no choice but to name him in future - by beating his main GB rivals every time!

Chuck catches Romford switch

THE Hawks are on the look out for a new forward to replenish their depleted strike-force.

It comes after striker Chuck Duru, above, left Harlow Town earlier this week after playing four games to join Romford.

It also follows striker Scott Williams being ruled out for the season with a dislocated shoulder.

Hawks assistant boss Paul West Hook said: "Chuck Duru leaving is a blow. He struggled to make sessions for us when we are working on things."

"He could not commit the time and we need players to be at training. Jeffrey Campbell has also gone to Romford. He was not right for us."

He added: "Scott Williams is out for the season. We cannot expect Piers Wixon to do it all. We are looking for a forward."

The Hawks are also looking for a central defender as Lee Gledhill will be out for four weeks with medial ligament damage.

Midfielder Clarke Akers should return from an ankle injury for the home clash against Heybridge Swifts this Saturday.

Ryohei Tamai deputises for keeper Bertrand Bossu who is banned after his red card against Tilbury 12 days ago.

Harlow face Tilbury away in a rearranged game on Tuesday.

Margaret and David Cox from Harlow have been fostering for nearly 25 years, mainly caring for teenagers, some of whom have been fostered long-term by the family.

“ The best thing about fostering is to see young people develop and blossom into adults. Fostering breathes new life into a home. Young people always have friends visiting and it helps to keep us young in mind and in heart. We have learned a lot about the latest trends in dress, music, video and technology!

“ We, as carers, have learned from and enjoyed our time looking after young people and we hope that in turn our input helps young people to succeed in later life. One of the highlights of fostering is when young people, who have moved on, pay us a visit or get in touch to tell us about their progress and successes.

“ There is an umbrella of support including our supervising social worker and other carers. Carers have a wealth of experience and help each other with advice and practical assistance.”

Gerrard Gibbs is a single male foster carer who has been fostering for nine years.

“ I first went into fostering when I changed my career path. I used to be in a city job where I was working all hours and I just didn't have time for anything else. But I changed to a more local kind of working and then it occurred to me that, while doing that, I would be able to offer a child a place and would be able to be there for them.

“ I have had nothing but total support from all my family and friends. In fact the children I look after become instantly part of the family. A child whom I call my eldest (he'll be twenty this year), all of the family know him and love him as if he were their own and he feels as comfortable with them as he does with me. I knew him when he was 10-years old and he came to stay with me. He stayed here until he became 18 and has now moved on to university. Whenever there's a break in university or a holiday he comes 'home' as he puts it. He's now in his second year at university and has managed brilliantly well on his own means. I'm delighted to have been able to champion his education from such a young age.

“ Working day to day in a primary school, all children of all colours and creeds look at each other just as people - just as friends. They don't see the differences - just someone they can spend time with - and I think that's what it is like for children. They will respond to your care for them and, if you can offer that, then you should definitely go for it.”

Penny Hemsley has been fostering for nearly 5 years and has cared for a wide range of children from newborn babies to teenagers.

“ I decided I needed a career break and to get my work/life balance back. Fostering seemed to offer me the opportunity to do something that was fulfilling and rewarding.

“ The highlights of fostering are every single success whether that is helping a child learn how to play or trust again, or helping a mother and child on into independence. I am currently fostering an asylum seeking child and it has been especially rewarding as he is so keen to learn. He came to me 18 months ago as an unaccompanied young asylum seeker with no English and he has developed into a confident young person who appreciates the opportunities he is given.

“ One thing I particularly enjoyed was seeing his joy when first encountering a swing and having to push him because at 13 years old, he had never experienced one and did not know how to make it work. It still makes me smile. My own sons are at university but come home for holidays and very much enjoy taking on the role of ‘big brothers’ and engage really well with my foster children.

“ The support in Essex is brilliant. I have an excellent relationship with my supervising social worker. There are high quality and frequent training courses available so that you can learn new skills or be refreshed on existing knowledge to help you with all aspects of child care and related matters.

“ The most important support is that of other foster carers. We have monthly support group meetings which enable foster carers from our area to meet up and share their experiences and/or just to socialise. You get a lot of support from school for children who are looked after to make sure that their needs are being met.

“ If you are considering fostering, I would say don’t just think about it, make that phone call - you will not regret it. It may seem like a scary thing to do but once you find out a little you will be surprised how easy it is. I started with that first phone call thinking ‘well I will just find out a little bit more’. Now, nearly 5 years later, I cannot imagine anything I would rather be doing. ”
